WILSON HAS RESTLESS NIGHT

JEALOUS, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Orient, Me., Man Tries to Use Gun and Then Slashes Himself

Houlton, Me., Oct. 14.—A report reached Houlton today alleging that George Mersereau of Orient had murdered his wife and then tried to commit suicide by shooting.

Failing in this, it is claimed, he attempted to cut his throat with a butcher knife.

It is said Mersereau was jealous of his young wife.

The wife was shot through the breast with a shotgun.

Three families lived in the same house. On rushing to the Mersereau apartment, it is claimed, they found the wife lying dead and Mersereau about to shoot himself.

The gun was taken away and witnesses say he grabbed a butcher knife from the table and made an attempt to cut his throat.

He was taken in an auto and rushed to the Aroostook Hospital in Houlton, where it is thought he will recover. They have one child about two months old. Mersereau is about twenty-five years of age and his wife was seventeen.

EAST BOSTON BOYS HELD FOR SHOE STORE THEFT

Robert Power, seventeen; Matthew Gould, fifteen, and John Colbert, fifteen, were arraigned in the East Boston court today, charged with breaking and entering the shoe store of Joseph Perrarri on Maverick street and the larceny of shoes and leather valued at $20. Their cases were continued in bonds until October 22. In connection with the same cases Philip Aronson, a Princeton street grocer, was arraigned, charged with receiving the stolen property. He pleaded guilty.

Special Service to Employers Needing Help

The Want Ad Takers of the Boston American will relieve you of all the petty details incidental to the insertion of a Want Ad.

All you need do is telephone Main 6150 and ask for the Want Ad Department.

You will be connected with one of a corps of intelligent young women, all of whom are experienced in Want Advertising.

She will write your ad for you, put it into effective form, using the fewest possible words—if you will tell her just what kind of help you need.

And next day your advertisement will appear before a larger audience than you could reach through any other Boston evening paper.

The best source for any kind of help is the biggest source—the place where most people are looking for employment.

So, naturally, the American's large circulation will produce results.

Remember the telephone number, Main 6150.

'Tse Cold, Daddy,' Says Babe Found in Bush After Wide Quest

Following an all-night search conducted by the police and fire departments and a posse of sympathetic citizens, who scoured the woods and fields far and near, three-year-old Helen Ramsdell was found today in a clump of bushes not twenty-five feet from her home by her father, William Ramsdell of No. 472 Essex street, Beverly.

In company with a party of neighbors the father was returning from a fruitless search of the nearby woods. When nearing the house he heard a childish voice cry: "Tse cold, daddy." The child seemed little the worse for the experience.

GOVERNMENT TO ACT AT ONCE IN THREE CRISES

Miners, Longshoremen and the Sugar Shortage Are Discussed by Cabinet

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The far-reaching decision that the United States government take immediate action in the three crises facing the nation in the threatened strike of coal miners, the longshoremen's strike in New York, and the serious sugar shortage, was reached at the meeting of President Wilson's Cabinet today at the White House.

ALLEGED SLAYERS ON TRIAL IN SALEM

Salem, Oct. 14.—Sulerman Haffan and Inbraham Haffan, went on trial today in Superior Court, charged with second degree murder, in the death of Alli Haffan, a brother of Sulerman, October 26, 1918. A jury was empaneled this forenoon. Their cases were continued in bonds until October 22. In connection with the same cases Philip Aronson, a Princeton street grocer, was arraigned, charged with receiving the stolen property. He pleaded guilty.

WASHINGTON DIRECTED BARRING OPERA SINGERS

Commissioner of Immigration Henry J. Skeffington today stated that the refusal to admit five members of the chorus of the Chicago Opera Company into the United States was not only following a precedent established at the port of New York, but that he was carrying out explicit directions from Washington. These orders specify that officials are to debar all singers who come into American ports under a contract made in Europe, and apply to members of the chorus only, not the principals.

1,100 DOCK MEN OUT HERE

Boston Longshoremen Defy Union Leaders and Tie Up Freight Shipments

With 1,100 longshoremen out, in defiance of their union leaders, with every trans-Atlantic cargo ship but one tied up, and with the city's sugar supply threatened, the Boston dock strike took a sharp turn for the worse today.

Developments seemed to indicate a complete victory for the radicals over the conservative labor leaders. The authority of duly elected union officials was openly flouted, as 900 men during the day left their posts to join the 200 who began the walkout Saturday.

The unauthorized Boston strike, like that in New York, is to force the United States Shipping Board to grant the full wage demand of the men for $1 an hour. The unions have voted to accept the compromise reached by arbitration, according to union officials, and the present strike is a breach of faith. The compromise offer which is being rejected was for seventy cents an hour and $1.70 for overtime.

At the Boston & Albany wharves in East Boston 400 today joined the 200 who left their posts Saturday. Three ships are tied up as a result.

QUIT ON SUGAR CARGO.

At the American Sugar Refinery wharf in South Boston, 100 longshoremen began the day, but quit during the forenoon. They were unloading crude sugar from the United States Shipping Board craft lake Beacon. Experts declare that should the strike continue to affect crude sugar cargoes, Boston would face a real sugar famine.

Some of the longshoremen at work on the White Star liner Canopic struck today, but enough remained at their posts to continue unloading. The Canopic has a perishable cargo, including Malaga grapes and lemons. The Red Star liners Osawatomia, Worcester and Hoosac are helpless as a result of the strike, as are the Anchor liner Scindia, the Cunard freighter Ikala, and the Leyland liner Caledonian, at the East Boston terminal.

PREDICT SPREAD OF STRIKE.

The Warren line steamers Wigmore, Tullamore and Scarten, at the Mystic docks, continued to unload during the early part of the day, but leaders of the radical wing of the longshoremen predicted that the ships would be tied up before night.

The same leaders predicted that all of the 1,800 longshoremen employed on ships now in port would be out within a day or two, and that the men would stick for $1 an hour, regardless of union officials and union agreements.

Coastwise shipping has not been affected in Boston, and it is not expected that it will be. There is understood to be some slight agitation for a sympathy strike, however.

All Bostonians Are Jews, Says Preacher in Park St. Church

Rev. Joseph Cohn, speaking today before the Boston Conference of Prophecy and the Jews, in the Park Street Church, said all the people in Boston were Jews.

Someone in the audience asked him to prove it.

"Are you not all children of Abraham by faith?" he replied. "Of course it is, and you most assuredly are, then you all are Jews. Christianity is Judaism. That is to say, Christianity is Judaism in its fulfilled form."

"The Jew was never a monotheist. Monotheism is idolatry."

Someone then stopped the speaker and said: "The Unitarians of Boston are monotheists. Are they idolaters?"

"By all odds, anyone who is a monotheist is an idolater," replied Rev. Cohn.

Washington, Oct. 14—The revolutionary movement in the United States is now so strong that it presents real danger of the overthrow of the government unless immediate action is taken, Senator Poindexter of Washington declared in the Senate this afternoon.

"Many of the strikes now going on in the country are a part of the revolutionary movement," Senator Poindexter said. "It is an effort to establish forcible communism.

"The time has come for the government to take action and to take vigorous action.

GENERAL CONDITION IS GOOD

President Would Call Back Congress if It Took an Adjournment

Washington, Oct. 14.—Although President Wilson did not have a restful night, his general condition today is good, it was announced in the official bulletin issued from the White House by Rear-Admiral Cary T. Grayson this afternoon. The bulletin follows:

"The President did not have a restful night last night. His restlessness was caused by a swelling of the prostrate gland, a condition from which he has suffered in the past and which has been intensified, more or less, by his lying in bed. His general condition, however, is good. As noted yesterday, his temperature, pulse, respiration, heart action and blood pressure are normal.

"GRAYSON,
"RUFFIN,
"STITT."

There was a fighting atmosphere about the White House today.

With President Wilson reported to have held the gains that have marked the past week, it was learned that any efforts to adjourn Congress on the contention that the President is too ill to consider any legislation that may be enacted will meet with vigorous action from the President himself.

Even should such an adjournment be taken, it was pointed out, the President has the constitutional authority to call the Congress back into session

WILSON REPORTS CAUSE SLUMP IN STOCKS

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 14—Uneasiness over President Wilson's condition and reports of industrial unrest led to a wild scramble of selling on the stock market today. Stocks were thrown overboard in large quantities and practically the entire list—steels, motors, tobacco, shipping stocks, railway issues and the oil shares—broke from 2 to 13 points.

The motor stocks suffered the worst losses, General Motors falling over 12 points to 290, while declines of from 2 to 6 points were made in the other shares.

Steel common dropped 2¼ to 101¼, and Mexican Petroleum 9 points to 244.

There were many sharp rallies from the low levels during the afternoon of from 1 to 6 points.

Steel common from a low of 100 rallied one point, while Bethlehem rose from a low of 243½ to 246¾, and General Motors 6 points to 296.

Industrial Alcohol showed strength, advancing from a low of 144¾ to 154. Rallies of from 1 to 2 points were general, but not all of these upturns were maintained.

There was a rally of from 1 to 16 points in practically everything traded in after the sharp declines. Industrial Alcohol featured the advance, jumping to above 158.

DENOUNCES GRAB OF SHANTUNG

Washington, Oct. 14.—If Japan is permitted to retain a strangle hold on Shantung and to exploit an unarmed and peaceful China, the United States will some day be confronted with the grave menace of a strong Japanese militaristic autocracy modelled after that of the Germany that tried to crush France, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, warned the Senate this afternoon.

In urging the adoption of the Shantung amendment to the peace treaty, which would restore to China the Chinese province seized by Japan as the price for her entry into the war on the side of the entente allies, Senator Lodge declared that the Japanese "constituted a growing peril to the American people, which must not be lost sight of."

The course of Japan has been insteady, relentless aiming to get ultimate control of the vast population and great territory of China. Japan is steeped in German ideas and regards war as an industry because from war she has secured all the extension of her empire," Lodge continued.

"She is a power, armed and trained, confronted by an unarmed and peaceful people. She means to exploit China and build herself up until she becomes a power formidable to all the world.

TO USE CHINESE ARMY.

"It is not merely that she will close the markets of China and obtain enormous commercial and economic advantages. She will use ultimately the practically unlimited man-power of China for military purposes, just as Germany and Austria used in their armies the man-power of the $26,000,000 Slavs who were utterly opposed to German domination, to promote their schemes of conquest.

"Japan will be enabled to construct in that way a power which will threaten the safety of the world. She again. And this, it was learned, would be done.

SENATE DISCUSSES WILSON'S CONDITION; FALL SUGGESTS RECESS

TEST SUIT BY 'WETS' LIKELY

The attitude of the friends of the President was this:

"President Wilson has submitted a program of constructive legislation to Congress. Let Congress keep on the job, instead of being concerned with unfounded rumors about the President's condition, and pass this legislation. When the bills are sent to the White House we will show them that we have a President."

Administration leaders are being irked by the President's refusal to issue a statement that will flatly deny all of the varied rumors that have found circulation since the President was forced to cancel his speaking tour in the West.

MAY GIVE DETAILS.

Such a statement, if it is issued, would go into the case in great detail and include, among other things, a resume of the President's activities not only since his return to the White House, but during the seven years of his term—during which it is estimated he has been "on the job," with the exception of two weeks prior to his present illness.

The President is aware of the widespread reports that have been circulated about his condition. This was learned at the White House when it was revealed that the President is allowed to read the daily newspapers. Up until recently this practice had been discouraged by Rear Admiral Grayson, his personal physician. The perusal of these papers has made the patient more anxious than ever to get on his feet," it was stated.

Although the White House bulletins continue to show improvement in the President's condition, it is definitely known that steps toward placing a man at the head of the capacity of the President to perform his duties are being seriously considered by lawyers of high national standing.

Such a test probably will be made at the first place of important legislation that is suffered to become a law without the President's signature.

It was said here today that the prohibition enforcement act may be selected as the measure upon which the President's ability to carry on his constitutional duties as President might be tested.

Attorneys for "wets" would not admit that such is their purpose, but members of Congress, with whom "wet" leaders have conferred are strongly of the opinion that some such step may be taken once the prohibition measure becomes effective.

The prohibition clause having been finally passed by both houses, has been transmitted to the White House. It should not be signed by the President within ten days and it should become a law, then the test might be made upon the ground that the executive was responsible for the law, and that it had not received the attention and scrutiny which it is assumed under the constitution, the President must give to all legislative matters.

BASIS OF SUIT.

The basis of a test suit would be that the Constitution implies that the President is to act as a co-ordinate branch of the law-making power. If this were not so, and laws were permitted to become effective without any attention on the President, Congress might go on passing laws indefinitely and all laws thus enacted would become a law without any inspection or review by the President or any other authority.

Constitutional lawyers who have taken up this phase of the Presidential illness assert that the whole theory of the legislative branch of the government is built upon the assumption that the President shall exercise a supervision over and veto, if necessary, all legislation that is passed.

Because the President is given the power of veto, they conclude, the Constitution intended that bills passed by Congress should not become law until after they have been inspected and passed upon by the chief executive.

It is upon this sort of argument that members of the Senate and House have learned that a test of the President's ability to continue to perform his duties may be brought in the event that his illness continues indefinitely and important pieces of legislation become laws without his signature.

WORDY WRANGLE AT WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

Labor Group Fears Secret Debate on the Steel Strike Situation

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The Committee of Fifteen in President Wilson's industrial conference "passed the buck" today on the question of advising arbitration in the national steel strike.

Thomas L. Chadbourne, chairman of the committee, reported the Gompers resolution to the conference without recommendation. This brings the whole question of whether the conference will advise arbitration out into the open.

HAVE WORDY WRANGLE.

The conference came near getting on the rocks as a result of the wordy wrangle over the steel resolution.

The labor delegates chafed at an ante-room during a brief adjournment and several delegates openly voiced their desire to "bolt" the whole conference.

Several members of the labor delegation declared that the labor proposals were "evading the issue" and that the present methods were getting nowhere.

Samuel Gompers and the labor group thought they saw in a resolution introduced by Chadbourne of the "public group" a plan to prevent public discussion of the steel strike issue.

Chadbourne told the conference that the "public group" had not had sufficient time to digest and consider which came from the "employers group" and the "labor group." He put his group in the position of having grave problems put up to it from both sides and being forced to vote on them without having opportunity for discussion. He wanted the conference to make arrangements that would permit the committee of fifteen to retire from the hall and hold group discussions on the reports of the "committee of fifteen."

GOMPERS TAKES FLOOR.

Samuel Gompers took the floor and said:

"I gather from this resolution that there are some differences in the group which Mr. Chadbourne represents. I know from experience that when a group of men make up their minds to discuss before public discussion takes place they cannot be made to change their minds thereafter. I am against the resolution because it prevents public discussion."

Matthew Woll, of the "labor group," said that if the groups discussed matters in private and then made their conference public, there would be no public discussion; the conference would be a series of committees, with most of its affairs conducted secretly. The "employers group" was silent.

The evident plan of the "labor group" was to force into open discussion the matter

LONG CALMLY CHEWS GUM AS SLAIN WOMAN'S AGED FATHER TESTIFIES

DESCRIBES NIGHT OF CRIME

Put Children to Bed Himself and Woke to Find Them Motherless

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 14.—Spectators in the Washington County Courtroom here, where George A. Long is on trial for his life, charged with the murder of Mrs. Lucina C. Broadwell, of Barre, were deeply moved today when George Courier, father of the slain woman, was called to the witness stand.

Seventy-five years of age, of frail appearance and with iron grey hair and beard, he made a pathetic figure as in a low voice he answered the questions of the prosecutors and the cross-examination of J. Ward Carver, senior counsel for Long.

Long offered a dramatic contrast to the murdered woman's father. Calmly chewing gum he sat with one knee thrown over the other and his arms resting upon the sides of his chair.

DESCRIBES DEATH NIGHT.

Courser's testimony related mainly to happenings at the Broadwell home on the night of the murder. He told of Harry Broadwell, the husband, coming home to supper, going out, returning for a shirt he was giving his wife his pay, and then going out again. Soon afterward, testified Courser, Mrs. Broadwell went out and purchased some meat. She also, he thought, brought a bag of candy, giving it to the three children.

This was about 7:30 p. m. It was, he conjectured, a half hour later that she again left the house. At this point the question was asked:

"Was that the last time you ever saw your daughter alive?"

"Yes," was the reply.

Courser put the children to bed and retired himself. About 2:45 a. m. he heard Harry Broadwell come in and go to bed. In the morning the discovery was made that Mrs. Broadwell had not returned. He and his son-in-law were discussing possible causes for his unwonted concern when a police officer arrived and imparted the news that Broadwell's wife had been slain and his three little children, the oldest nine and the others seven and six years of age respectively, had been left motherless. Broadwell went away with the officer.

IDENTIFIES WOMAN'S WATCH.

Courser was asked to identify a watch and pocketbook. He testified that he and his wife presented the watch to Mrs. Broadwell when the latter was sixteen. He stated that his daughter was twenty-nine when she left her children on the night of May 3d to go out and meet her death.

Following the cross-examination of Courser, recess was ordered by Judge Butler. Long strolled into the corridor at the rear of the courtroom. He disappeared into the little room reserved for conferences with his attorneys. He emerged, he was puffing vigorously and with apparent satisfaction at corn cob pipe.

BARRE WOMEN TESTIFY.

Upon resumption of the session, Mrs. Addie Bradley of Barre was called to the stand. She testified to having seen Mrs. Broadwell in the Barre five-and-ten-cent store about 5 o'clock on the evening of Saturday, May 3. It was gathered from her evidence that Mrs. Broadwell visited this store after leaving her home for the last time.

Mrs. Gertrude Cheney, another resident of Barre, was next to testify. She stated that she saw Mrs. Broadwell passing up Summer street toward Pearl street, some time after 5:30 on Saturday night.

This book, which is the initial effort of a newspaperman of many years' experience, deals with universal brotherhood and the peace which the world has been seeking since the war. The poet has a message for the people, and imparts it with a lilt and rhythm that possesses a strong appeal.

Mr. Jones came from Columbus, Ohio, to Tufts University, from which he graduated with the class of 1902. He served a newspaper apprenticeship in Providence papers, going from there after four years to the Worcester Evening Post. From the Post Mr. Jones went to the Lawrence Sun-American, where he remained some years. He then joined the staff of the Advertiser, working up from reporter to city editor. STRIKE CALL FOR COAL MINERS OUT TODAY

Lewis Expected to Order Nation-Wide Walkout From Office at Indianapolis

By International News Service.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 14.—A nation-wide strike of coal miners will be called today, it was stated authoritatively at the headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America. The call will be issued the moment John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers, who is enroute to Indianapolis from Philadelphia, reaches his office, it was stated.

Following failure at a conference of bituminous operators and miners to reach an agreement on a wage scale, Mr. Lewis announced at Philadelphia that he would call a strike of soft coal miners of the country on November 1.

TAKE HOLIDAY AND LOSE ARMY BASE JOBS

37 Employes Dropped at South Boston; Many Are War Veterans

Thirty-seven employes at the Army Supply Base who, observed Columbus Day by taking a holiday are now without jobs. They claim that no notice was posted beforehand that the army would not observe the holiday in common with other institutions and that when they reported for duty early today they were told their places had been filled.

Many of the employes served overseas during the war and have been working at the supply base since their return to civil life. Thirty of those let out worked in the retail sales branch and seven in the warehouses. They were given no advance pay in lieu of notice.

Colonel E. L. Glasgow, superintendent of the retail stores, denied that any employes were discharged solely because they took Columbus Day as a holiday.

"We are discharging men nearly every day for gambling and smoking in the warehouses," said the colonel. "Some of the men who were absent from duty Monday night might have been discharged for this in conjunction with other offences.

"My instructions to supervising officers were to be as lenient as possible to employes asking for holidays on Columbus Day. I do not know of a single instance where an employe asking for leave was refused."

A delegation of the men working at the unloading of freight cars, headed by Thomas F. McCormick, said they were treated brusquely and discharged when they reported to the base for work today. Some of them participated in the military carnival at Braves Field. Another attended a meeting of his post of the American Legion.

Major W. H. Fleming, warehouse supervisor, said that the men discharged were let go because they were absent from duty, and added:

"When a man does not report for work we hire another to take his place. Naturally, we do not fire the new man as soon as the one who formerly held it returns. That was the case of the men discharged today."

CHARGE "LIGHTED LAMP" IS DISORDERLY HOUSE

More than a score of "Bohemian" devotees of "The Lighted Lamp" were in Municipal Court today prepared to testify in defence of Ambrose T. Gring, its proprietor, who is accused of maintaining a disorderly house. Attorney Jacob Isaacs, for the defendant, secured a continuance until October 23. The case is the outcome of a disturbance at "The Lighted Lamp" last Friday evening. Gring is charged with having made an effort to eject an unknown and "undesirable" patron. Hardly had the hands quieted on the person, according to Gring, when Sergeant Gaffney and two officers entered the place and took his name.

"The Lighted Lamp" is a so-termed "Bohemian" tea room in the West End.

CYCLIST KILLS AGED INVENTOR AND FLEES

A motorcyclist traveling at an excessive speed knocked down and instantly killed Charles K. Bradford, ninety-four years old and widely known as an inventor, in the town square at Lynnfield. The cyclist left the scene hurriedly.

Descriptions of the cyclist and his machine have been sent to the police of surrounding towns with instructions to watch the public garages for him. Parts of the motorcycle found on the highway near the accident were injured by the collision.

The aged victim was born in New Bedford and during his life was awarded more than 200 patents for his inventions, most of which were improvements on the sewing machine. He also assisted in the invention of the machine used in making paper collars.

SHARON TROLLEY LINE RESUMES OPERATIONS

Sharon's three-mile street railway, which the East Sharon and Sharon Heights, resumed operation today by authority of the Public Service Commission. The town has agreed to aid the road financially in making up the deficit resulting from operation. The Norton, Canton and Sharon Street Railway Company abandoned the line nearly a year ago.

Cider With 'Kick of a Mule' Lands Two in Court

Sweet cider with the "kick of a mule" is a new drink being sold in Dedham. At least this is what was gathered from the testimony of two who were arraigned in the Dedham District Court today.

Forest Hoctor of Norwood was brought before Judge Grover and fined $20 for operating a motorcycle while under the influence of liquor. He told the court he became intoxicated by drinking three glasses of sweet cider.

The other was Frank E. Hutt of Bridge street, Dedham. He claims to have become drunk by mixing two bottles of Jamaica ginger with sweet cider sold to him by Constantine Zantos, clerk employed in a local drug store. Zanton was arraigned at the same hearing and fined $50. He paid.

WALSH WORKING TO END NAUMKEAG STRIKE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—At the suggestion of Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, the Department of Labor has assigned Conciliator Joseph R. Buchanan to the strikes at the Naumkeag Mills, Salem, Mass., and the Danvers Bleachery, Peabody, Mass., owned and controlled by the Naumkeag Steam Cotton Company.

The department was informed that the strikers were willing to arbitrate and return to work pending a decision, but so far the company has not expressed a willingness to meet a committee of employes.

DIVORCE DECREE GRANTED MRS. CHRISTENSEN

No Question as to Unfaithfulness of Husband, Says Judge in Giving Decision

Mrs. Ethel M. Christensen was today granted a divorce from Raymond A. Christensen, by Judge King, in the divorce session of the Suffolk Superior Court.

The Court announced that arguments relating to the custody of the child would be heard tomorrow.

In handing down his decision on the case, which was tried last week, Judge King said that in his opinion there was no question as to the unfaithfulness of the husband. He further stated that there was no basis for the charge of conspiracy made by Christensen against his wife, her attorneys and detectives employed by them.

During the trial, Christensen, who is an interior decorator, claimed that he was "framed" by Harry A. Brown, a detective. Christensen asserted that Brown arranged a meeting with him with Marian McNulty at her apartments on Commonwealth avenue. He further declared that he was inveigled into a compromising position with the McNulty woman, whom he charged was hired by detectives.

Christensen added that the family of his wife, who live in Skowhegan, Me., wished to get rid of him because he was in poor circumstances while they were well off. It was brought out that Christensen has done but very little work during the past few years.

The couple have a child, William Raymond, five, whose custody the mother is seeking.

Fiji Island Skirts and "Cannibal" Hats Stir Paris

Paris, Oct. 14.—Waikiki dancing girl skirts, Fiji Island headdresses and "cannibal" hats, trimmed with outstanding monkey fur, were among the astonishing features of the manequens gowns parade at the Longchamps races.

The Waikiki skirts are made up of long coarse fringes of all colors, ranging from cocoanut to black.

Long haired monkey fur standing up from the heads of smartly-dressed girls gave an exotic appearance to which Paris has not been accustomed so far.

To make the illusion of the Hawaiian effect even stronger, a novel face powder has been adopted, giving the complexion the bronzed tone of the Pacific Islanders.

Jewelled heels—red ones—also were introduced for the first time since the war, as were anklet watches, obliging the wearers to lift their toes to see the time or ask an attendant to lean over and read the dial.

"PERFECT BABY" PHOTO BLAMED FOR THEFT

Hammonton, N. J., Oct. 14.—The case of little George William Dansey, two years and ten months old, who disappeared last Wednesday and who, it is believed, was kidnaped, took a new turn today. It was announced the child is a "perfect baby" and that his picture appears in the October issue of a woman's magazine.

The criminal history of kidnaping cases have been solved through the revelation that some woman, unable childless herself, desired the fine youngster of another. It was thought today that "Billy," the "perfect baby," might have been taken away by just such a person.

The Dansey baby was so robust a youngster, perfectly formed, that his record of development was taken every three months and sent to a government bureau in Washington. He was one of those handsome little chaps persons would stop on the street so they might speak their admiration.

ON TWO OTHER TRAILS.

However, the development of the new theory did not cause the searchers to abandon the two earlier suggestions and the two trails, which pointed to Atlantic City and Pittsburgh. The Philadelphia authorities also joined the quest for the child today.

A dozen or more gypsy camps within a radius of 100 miles continued today.

County detectives are also trying to locate two hunters who were seen near the Dansey home at the time of the child's disappearance. Mrs. Hercules Dansey, mother of "Billy," said the men denied seeing the missing boy, but soon afterward she heard the faint cry of a child and she now believes the cries came from her son.

A committee of forty neighbors, militiamen and returned soldiers today covered a great deal of the territory from the Weymouth swamp to Mays Landing. They were following a trail left by a vehicle which had narrow rubber tires—a rig not known about this place.

Private detectives also went to Pittsburgh on the possibility that one of Mrs. Dansey's former suitors, who, it is said, threatened to "get even with her" for his rejection, might have gotten the child through her child. It was said today that before her marriage, four years ago, Mrs. Dansey had three suitors—a man of wealth, another a poor man and the third and successful one Hercules Dansey.

The poor suitor is the one who, it was threatened to get even.

MAY HAVE GONE TO RESORT.

The Atlantic City clew is based chiefly on the trail left by the narrow tired vehicle in the Weymouth swamp. The theory is that this vehicle, bearing the baby and his kidnapers, continued through the swamp to its natural outlet at Mays Landing and went on to Atlantic City.

Many residents of Hammonton, however, still scout the kidnaping theory and cling to their belief that eventually the child's body will be found near his home, perhaps in a well or cistern.

The description of Billy, sent broadcast today, runs:

"Although he will not be three years old until Christmas, the boy looks a year older. He has light hair, large hazel eyes and a brown mole on his right breast. When last seen he wore a blue romper, brown sweater, gray baseball cap with narrow stripes, and moccasins. When asked his name, he replies, 'Billy Pittsburgh.'"

The Hammonton authorities today appealed to the Governors of Pennsylvania and New Jersey and the mayors of cities in those two States to aid in the search for Billy. Rewards aggregating $1,400 have been offered for news of the child's whereabouts.

Postpone Chamber Meeting

Because of the illness of President Frank W. Whitcher, the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce, scheduled at the Hotel Vendome, October 15, has been postponed. A date for the meeting will be announced following a meeting of the board of directors tomorrow.

WOULD HAVE U. S. PAY LOSSES OF RAILROADS

Increased Wages Should Be Borne as War Expenses, Declares Atchison

By International News Service.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 14.—There is no domestic question before Congress today of greater importance than the securing of a system of transportation adequate for national needs at all times of peril as well as in time of peace.

This was the statement here today by Clyde B. Aitchison, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in an address before the National Association of Railway and Utilities Commissioners.

"An outstanding lesson emphasized by the war," he added, "was that an adequate transportation system is not only a controlling factor in the carrying and development of commerce, but is a requisite branch of the military arm of the government and vital in the national defense.

"Referring to increases of wages Aitchison said they were a direct result of war, and that they should be borne as part of war expenses.

"As these conditions have been forced upon the carriers," he continued, "it seems appropriate that, following the return of the properties and until the corporations have a reasonable opportunity to make their own readjustments the government should stand behind reasonable losses from operations to a reasonable extent.

"Railroad wages should be adjusted to the costs of living and to wages in other employments, and adjustment should be made by whatever body is by its nature best fitted for the task. Wage scales have been thus adjusted no rate-making tribunal would refuse to give attention to the scale determined upon as fair."

WANTS RAILROAD BOATS TO GO TO SHIPPING BOARD

Washington, Oct. 14.—Additions to floating equipment of railroads made during government control of the railroads should be traded over to the Shipping Board, Senator Ransdell of Louisiana urged before the Interstate Commerce Committee of the Senate. Senator Ransdell appeared in behalf of an amendment to the Esch-Cummins bill returning the railroads to their private owners.

Under the amendment of Senator Ransdell all contracts for floating equipment would be made by the National Administration but would be placed under the control of the Shipping Board when the railroads are returned to their owners.

MAY DEMAND INQUIRY ON CHILD WELFARE WORK

Concord, N. H., Oct. 14.—It is possible that the sixty-four immigrators who have been brought here by the Americanization Association will demand a sweeping investigation into the management of the child welfare organization as a result of the assessment of $150 on each of them in settlement of claims against the organization.

The liabilities are said to amount to upwards of $9,000.

Governor John H. Bartlett and United States Senator Henry W. Keyes are among those assessed.

The old station has not been used before since the fire, the ticket office having been located in a vacant store nearby. It is understood that a new station will be erected in the Spring.

WOULD HORSES BEGIN 300-MILE ARMY TEST

19 Highly Bred Cavalry Mounts Leave Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., for Camp Devens

Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., Oct. 14.—Travelling under the severe conditions of an enlisted march, nineteen highly-bred horses left this fort today on a 300-mile endurance race. The contest will end at Camp Devens, Mass., Saturday.

The test has the approval of the chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry and the Remount Board of the army. It is designed as a trial for horses under the most humane conditions. To stimulate interest in the breeding of cavalry mounts is the primary aim of the test. It is expected to become an annual test by which the qualities of courage, stamina, physical and mental endurance of the different breeds of horses under heavy weights may be gauged.

60 MILES A DAY.

Contestants will travel at the rate of sixty miles a day. The horses will carry a minimum of 200 pounds, including rider and equipment. All will enter the same race, which will be made at Northfield, Vt., and Concord, N. H. The horses will be judged on conditions noted and the amount of food consumed. There are three cash prizes, $1,000, $500 and $250, and the U. S. Remount Service cup.

GIVES SECRET OF REJUVENATION

Note— Here is the first detailed description of the process of "youth restoration," the discovery of which by the author of this article has startled the world.

By DR. SERGE VORONOFF,
(Member of the College De France and the Academy of Medicine.) Written Expressly for Universal Service.

Special Cable Dispatch.

Paris, Oct. 14.—Has the fabled fountain of youth been discovered? Perhaps.

But it is already a positive fact that man is worth as much as his intestinal gland. This saying should now replace the old one, that "a man is worth as much as his arteries."

At the same time the American public should not be misled into believing the mystery of life has been solved. The importance of the scientific discovery of which I speak is so immense that it needs no exaggeration to be sensational. I assert this:

An enormous step has been taken toward the abolition of old age and decay.

It is already a mathematical success with animals, but not yet with human beings, chiefly owing to the lack of opportunities to test men.

We may, therefore, hope for much, but must wait a while before we can feel positive that we no longer need have fear of ills and decay brought about by age.

My communication to the medical congress in Paris caused a sensation the world over. It startled the scientists assembled here as well as the general public. It isn't idle assertion. I cited facts and instances which amazed the medical world.

AIDED BY AMERICAN WOMAN.

I arrived at my conclusions through years of experiments conducted gradually, without haste, with all scientific guarantees and the invaluable help of my assistant, Mrs. Evelyn Bostwick of New York, who worked with me for years at the College de France.

The idea is not new. The Chinese knew the functions of the intestinal gland thousands of years ago; we are now rediscovering what was already known to ancient civilization.

Until recent years little had been understood of the functions and relative importance of the various glands hidden in different portions of every animal's body.

WHAT THE GLANDS DO.

It is now a fact, accepted by scientists, that these glands secrete fluids of various kinds which supply the vital organs with that particular sort of energy required by each for the exercise of its proper functions.

Take, for instance, the thyroid gland. Through some mysterious process this gland draws from the body and stores up liquid matter which it dispatches to the brain as required. Without this gland the brain sinks into atrophy and becomes a blank.

Were I to remove a man's thyroid gland he would be in total idiot inside of six months.

In the same manner, the intestinal glands appear to supply every organ of the body with a fund of energy. This I have proved by means of continued experiments which further possibility of doubt. Nothing is more certain.

RESTORES VIGOR AND YOUTH.

It suffices to take glands from the body of a young, vigorous, healthy animal and graft them into the flesh of some decrepit animal in order to restore the latter's vigor and youth.

Copyright by International.

These young glands, nourished by blood, rapidly become an integral part of the portion of the foreign body to which they have been grafted, and they soon begin manufacturing copious quantities of vitalizing fluid which passes out through the arteries and restores to health and fresh activity the worn-out organs.

The rejuvenation of the aged beast by this process is the natural and logical sequel. This, of course, is all very well where animals of the lower order are concerned, for it is a matter of no consequence if, for the sake of science, a young pig, goat, or ram is robbed of its vital tissues in order to experiment with the rejuvenation of other beasts that are decrepit.

APPLYING IT TO MANKIND.

It is the question of applying the discovery to human-kind that presents a ticklish problem—for where are we to get the young glands for the treatment of old men and women?

At first glance the solution appears difficult, for young men or women could hardly be expected to sacrifice their youth and future for the gratification of their elders.

Fortunately, it is just at this juncture that the utility of previous clinical studies, undertaken at the Rockefeller Institute and elsewhere with apes, comes to the rescue.

Thanks to these invaluable experiments we know that the blood of the ape is exactly the same as a man's. From which we draw the conclusion that since the glands draw a supply of vital fluid from the ape's blood, the glands in a man's body must perform essentially the same function, secreting a similar fluid recognized as a chemical composition such as, for instance, adrenaline, which is secreted in the thyroid gland and is responsible apparently for the mysterious power that keeps the heart beating relentlessly year after year at the rate of seventy beats to the minute, in the average.

At present it is impossible to conclude from a scientific viewpoint that the secret of eternal youth of man has been discovered, but I anticipate that I shall be able shortly to announce such in the fact, after a series of experiments which have already begun and which are being continued at an old age asylum where decrepits are under hospital care.

I do not like to talk about the experiments already made, for that might give a false impression and false hope to the intelligent American public to which I intend to talk seriously on this subject of supreme interest.

It is true that success has been attained in the case of at least one aged Parisian who not long ago was worn out and broken down in spirit by the battle of life. He is today back in harness, full of youthful vigor, ambition, and zest of life, thanks to a simple operation performed upon him.

PROMINENT MAN REBUILT.

I cannot mention any names, but the man is a prominent political figure whose notable rejuvenation has been the marvel of all his friends.

Seven months ago he came to my laboratory. Sixty-six years of strenuous labor had bent his form, whitened his hair and sapped the last drop of vitality. He was, indeed, a pitiful figure. Life held nothing further for him, he said, so he was willing to take the chance of an operation of grafting interstitial glands of which he had heard.

I accepted the offer gladly, for it was the first opportunity to try the effect of this magic process of surgical science upon a human being. I had been practicing on animals for many years.

I explained to my patient that he was not running any risk, for the operation presented no dangers, but I warned him not to be too hopeful. It was agreed that the test should be made.

TOOK GLANDS FROM AN APE.

I selected a healthy specimen of an anthropoid ape, from which I removed the revitalizing glands. Then, applying only a local anaesthesia, I made a small incision in the patient's flesh, inserted the ape's glands, sewed up the wounds and left the rest of the process to time and nature.

Within two months the patient's tissue had united perfectly with the foreign flesh grafted into his own, and he was on the highway to rejuvenation, which today is complete.

It must not be thought, however, that he suddenly resumed a miraculously youthful appearance. The operation has not that virtue. His features remain wrinkled and his hair as white as before, but he no longer walks bent down, weighted by his years, but strides briskly and upright. No longer does his mind refuse to wrestle with problems of his profession. His thoughts are clear, his brain is active and his reaction rapid.

NOW LIKE NEW MAN.

No longer are his nights sleepless. He now rests as soundly as a child. He has the mental and physical vigor of a man of 35 or 40, with the outward appearance of hale and healthy old age.

Another man was operated upon three months ago. His condition gives every reason to suppose he will be as fortunate as my first patient.

I recall the success with which I treated an imbecile in 1914 by means of grafting a thyroid gland into his flesh. The operation was of a similar nature.

He was a boy of fourteen. When brought to my clinic he was unable to speak. I took a thyroid gland from a monkey and grafted it on. Within two years this gland supplied the secretions formerly absent in the boy's brain and which are required to obtain the normal functioning of the human brain.

The boy learned to talk, read, and act the same as a normal child of eight years. By 1917 this boy had so greatly improved that when his military class was called on, to fight the Germans he shouldered a musket and went off to war where he proved a splendid sample of young French manhood. Three years before he had been a speechless imbecile.

An Internal Treatment For Piles (Hemorrhoids)

It's positively marvelous how speedily it acts. Blessed relief often comes in two or three days, even in cases that have resisted all previously known treatments, really wonderful results have been accomplished. It is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded.

The I. B. Hunt Co. of Cambridge and Roxbury Crossing dispense Miro or can get it for you on short notice. Surely it is worth the little trouble to obtain to be rid of piles forever.

PRICES CUT ON ARMY CANNED GOODS

2,000 Suits of Unionalls, and Bargains in Shoes, Ready for Buyers

Upon telegraphic authority from Washington prices of two commodities at the army retail stores in South Boston were reduced today. The 2½-pound cans of cornmeal which have been selling at 50 cents were cut to 39, and the small cans of baking powder were changed from 14 cents to 9.

Two thousand suits of unionalls were placed on sale today at $2.50 each. The garments are of good material and well made.

There is a steady demand for the army bacon in six and eight-pound strips which sells at 35 cents a pound, and the five-pound bags of graham flour sold at 30 cents a bag.

The supply of the following articles has been temporarily exhausted: sweet corn, peas, jams, soups, string beans, nutmeg, mustard, asparagus, pumpkin No. 2 and baked beans No. 3. The army still has on hand a stock of pumpkin No. 2 and baked beans No. 2.

BARGAINS IN SHOES.

Captain R. C. Halliday called attention today to the bargains offered by the government in reclaimed shoes at $3 a pair. These are both hobnails and marching shoes of reinforced leared. They were manufactured for the army at a cost of about $7 a pair, according to Captain Holliday, and are well suited to men engaged in outdoor work.

Monday's attendance was 15,000, Colonel E. L. Glasgow, supervisor of the stores, estimated today. Cash sales amounted to $16,000. The opening of the cash and carry branch was delayed twenty-five minutes today while proper change was being obtained for the cashiers' booths from the sub-treasury.

SUGAR ORDERS POUR IN.

Orders for sugar continue to pour into the mail order division, although the army has never had any sugar for sale here and will not have. Other orders which reach the supply base are for raincoats, hot water bottles and cots, brooms, none of which are on sale.

Monday's receipts in this branch, according to Lieutenant-Colonel H. B. Barry, supervisor, amounted to $16,000, bringing the total since the opening to $267,000. Further enlargement of the offices was made today and twenty-five new clerks installed.

Lieutenant-Colonel C. C. Burt, formerly in charge of this department, who had been absent a month in Iowa, has been transferred to Camp Grant, Ill., as quartermaster of the Sixth Division. He was given a farewell dinner at the Hotel Westminster by the employes associated with him at the supply base.

TEACHERS OPEN SALARY FIGHT TOMORROW

Representatives of the entire teaching force of Boston will present their claims for additional wages at a mass meeting in the school committee building on Mason street tomorrow night.

Judge Michael H. Sullivan of the school committee will call the meeting to order, and other members of the committee will also be in attendance. The majority of the speakers, however, will be teachers.

Some of the larger groups of teachers will represent the smaller ones and the larger organizations will be given five minutes for their speakers. The smaller groups in some cases will be asked to have their representatives confine their remarks to two and five minutes so that all who wish may have a chance to state their views.

LYNN GIRL RUNS FROM HER DRAB HOME LIFE

A girl's natural love of life and color, combined with her discouragement in the drab atmosphere of domestic misfortune, caused fifteen-year-old Florence Downing of Lynn to run away from home, according to her mother. Mrs. Downing scouts the theory that the girl was lured away.

The Downing girl left her home Friday, and was taken into custody in New York yesterday by the Children's Society.

Florence Downing is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Downing of No. 24 Ridgeway street, Lynn. Her father years ago lost an arm. Her mother is a chronic invalid. Her mother's affliction and her own frequent illnesses have combined to keep her away from school.

"Florence never went out nights alone," said Mrs. Downing today. "I am sure she knew nobody who would have urged her to leave her home. She left Friday without her breakfast to seek work in a shoe factory."

The Downing girl, with Mario Shay of Detroit, about her own age, was taken into custody when they asked the New York police for their fares home.

Be Sure You Get An "American Beauty"

You can afford to pay a little more for its years of unfailing service.

Remember, when you buy an inferior iron, you must contend with its faults and flaws, time after time. Repair bills, replacement of coils, ironings interrupted by breakdown, are a few of the worries that recur constantly.

Can the little you save on the cost of an ordinary iron pay for such repeated vexations?

With the American Beauty you are positively free of these annoyances. Just hear how owners praise it. Ask any of the 2,000,000 users what they think of their American Beauty irons.

They chose it, as a skilled workman buys a fine tool—not because it cost less, but upon knowledge of its dependability.

Its scientific balance and specially shaped nose make the work easier. The flexible cord is protected for hard service.

Don't hesitate to let the laundress use your American Beauty. She won't damage it. And she will do your work better.

Get an American Beauty today. You will find a new pleasure and satisfaction in ironing, that more than repays its slightly higher first price.

Don't Spoil a Good Meal With a Bad Stomach

If a physician, a specialist in stomach diseases, came to you and said: "I will fix up that miserable, worn-out stomach for you or money back. Or would you say: "I will make it as good as new so you will not suffer from any distress and can eat what you want without fear of suffering or money back." Would you condemn his offer?

And when you are offered Mi-o-na stomach tablets, made from a prescription better than many of the stomach specialists know how to write, are you going to be narrow minded and continue to suffer from indigestion, or are you going to be fair to yourself and buy them on the money-back guarantee.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are offered to you on this basis that if they do not put your stomach into such good shape that there is no distress at all from indigestion, sick headache, and stomach distress, your money will be returned. For sale by all leading druggists.

HOW TO ACQUIRE HAIR BEAUTY

You can enjoy a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost, if you get from your druggist a few ounces of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and hair until both are entirely covered by the dandruff dissolving preparation that thoroughly dissolves and removes every bit of dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After using the hair dries quickly with fluffiness that makes it seem softer than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.—Advertisement.

KAISER FOR PEACE WITH ENGLAND IN 1915, SAYS VON TIRPITZ

WILSON'S LUSITANIA NOTE DISRUPTED BERLIN

VON TIRPITZ MEMOIRS
By ALFRED VON TIRPITZ,
Grand Admiral of the German Navy.

Diary Continued.

Charleville, April 17, 1915.—Without doubt the Foreign Office, by means of the press, is systematically advocating advances to England, and this policy is absolutely opposed to the annexation of Belgium in any form whatever. If we adhere to the policy advocated in the Tageblatt, undoubtedly with the knowledge of the Foreign Office, we already acknowledge ourselves beaten and sink to be mercenaries of England against Russia.

We can only remove the Russian danger by diverting it. Should this however not succeed and we once more be forced to fight against Russia, side by side with England, we will get nothing out of it but the shedding of blood.

We ought to have upheld Russia in the Persian affair at the time of the Potsdam conference, and if that was not enough, we should have said to them, "On to the Bosphorus. We have nothing against it."

Then the whole set in the Balkans would have run after us. Though the forms are different today, Bismarck was quite right as to fundamental thought.

* * *

Charleville, April 18, 1915.—It is rumored here that England will show us some mercy. If this is believed we shall rush into her arms despite all the flourish of trumpets and bragging.

Our small U-boats now about down everything that comes in their way. The chancellor is tearing his hair because of it and is doing his best to intercede the Emperor. Any liberties may be taken with us, but our modesty and good behavior when our very existence is at stake causes the neutrals to doubt of our power to win.

(Editor's Note: March 28 the British steamer Falaba was attacked and sunk by a submarine with the loss of 111 lives, including one American. April 4 the steamer Hyadiez, chartered by the American Commission for Relief in Belgium, was torpedoed by a German submarine, fifteen lives being lost. These incidents greatly inflamed the English and American public against Germany.)

It is on the whole very satisfactory that England's abusing us so immodorately—a slap that thing sare uncomfortable for them. If only the new kind of U-boat could be ready sooner, and show effects before England consents to peace negotiations.

Here the Chancellor and his aid are again running round with hair on end because a little U-boat sank a Dutch ship.

INSTEAD OF MAKING A PROUD AND RESOLUTE STAND AGAINST UNPRINCIPLED NEUTRALS HOLLAND WE WHINE AND ARE ALREADY APOLOGIZING WITHOUT CAUSE.

BETHMANN WANTED COURLAND.

Emanuelssegen, July 20, 1915 (To my wife).—Our guards, which have been hard hit, are now confronted by the Russian guards who have been brought up from Petersburg. From this it is thought that the Russians are sticking their last. Falkenhayn has told Bachmann that the Chancellor wants to annex Courland. England will be delighted at this. If we do it we will have run aground for the next century and run against the Russians, too. England will laugh in her sleeve and we will retire from Belgium. England will then have attained her aim and we will be forced back to a purely continental state.

(Editor's Note: Further indications that Germany's war aims were from the start the annexation of territory. With her shaken army, Germany began the new offensive against Russia at this time, and succeeded in capturing successively Warsaw, Ivangorod, Kovno, Brest-Litovsk and Vilna.)

Falkenhayn is entirely deaf to the pleas from Turkey and the Balkans. The entire set around the Emperor are quietly dozing. The Emperor himself spends much of his time before a large map, filling it in.

* * *

Emanuelssegen, July 24, 1915.—Today we are expecting the American note. (Third Lusitania note). In case it is harsh, Bethmann, Jagow and the others will say, "We owe this to the navy."

(Editor's Note: The third United States note on the Lusitania sinking was sent from Washington, July 21. It called Germany's explanations made on July 8, very unsatisfactory.)

* * *

Emanuelssegen, July 25, 1915.—America is so impudently and openly pro-British that it is hardly credible we will knuckle under. Still I think anything possible. A remark in the note indicates that we have already secretly promised to restrict the U-boat warfare. We are sliding on.

But now it becomes a case of formal acknowledgment before the world and before the German people. The answer can easily drag on for weeks. I cannot agree to a formal renouncement of the U-boat warfare. We should thereby give up the only weapon of the future against England.

The refusal of Falkenhayn of all help to Turkey weighs heavily upon me.

(Editor's Note: Germany's anxiety over Turkey lay in the increasing pressure which Italy was bringing on the Turkish government, and which, unless relieved by Turkish military successes, was certain to provoke a declaration of war. This Berlin realized would only be the prelude to an Italian declaration of war against Germany, thus according the purely local territorial questions which provoked the Italian declaration against Austria. Italy did declare war against Turkey August 20, and against Germany soon after.)

* * *

Emanuelssegen, July 27, 1915.—A year ago today I reached Berlin and was told that all was in order. I did not trust the assurance and unfortunately I was right. We have already lost 500,000 men on the battlefields and over 1,000,000 wounded and still there is no end in sight.

I think that the shamefully harsh tone of the American note is not a disadvantage to us. As yet we know nothing further from Berlin. As Wilhelmstrasse opinions are said to be divided. Herr Kriege (head of the legal department in the Foreign Office) is said to have gone completely over against the U-boats. He probably thinks his time has come and that a new, modern international law is developing.

Personally I think the American note is not to be answered and the U-boat warfare will die a lingering death.

* * *

DENIED ANNEXATION AIM.

Emanuelssegen, July 29, 1915.—Today I was informed that on August 1st the Emperor will issue a proclamation which, in spite of the flourish of trumpets and beating of drums, will be very like a chamade. It is said to contain the statement that we are not making war for conquest. Other passages, asserting that we do not intend to extend our frontiers, and that we are ready to make peace, contained in the original draft, have been struck out.

Such an admission of our defeat would make the worst impression here and abroad.

It is true that all inspired newspapers take the same attitude as the proclamation.

I at once telephoned to Berlin to obtain further proof of such a proclamation being contemplated. To-day I went to see Wild von Hohenborn, who also was horrified at the idea.

A report of our military attaches in Athens describes the indignation of the Greeks at England's oppression designed to force them into the war. To judge by their newspaper articles, they show more courage in this direction than the Dutch.

Emanuelssegen, July 31, 1915.—According to apparently reliable reports, after the sending of our note to America, Jagow went to an American official and implored him to do his utmost to assure its favorable reception.

Behnack writes beside himself about the decrease in the use of the U-boats in consequence of the restrictions. That the U-boats act only under these restrictions has doubtless been signified to America. From the early beginning I have always fought for an energetic stand against America but without result.

* * *

Emanuelssegen, Aug. 1.—We went to church at Pless to commemorate the anniversary of the war by a church service. I told his majesty he must take a hopeful view of things and that all would be well if we stood fast.

He replied that of course we would "stand fast." But from the aides de camp I learned that the wretched proclamation had been issued.

In the little church the last seat was taken. The clergyman, a very old man, chooses a small and easy text, which goes to the Red Cross. The clergyman was simple, natural and full of heartfelt conviction. He took his text from First Samuel: "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

Hereupon that we do not refrain from pure motives and He will continue to aid us."

In speaking of the hard struggle which would come at the peace table after the war, he said:

"Then we must no longer say, 'Hitherto hath the Lord helped us,' but rather, 'Fear not, the Lord is with thee.'"

* * *

"REPRISALS TOO BRUTAL."

Three Prussian officers are to be shot on account of a barbarous. Wild wished to threaten reprisals. Bethmann is against it. The Emperor is for it. Bethmann thinks it too brutal.

* * *

Emanuelssegen, August 3, 1915.—We have intercepted British wireless messages which show that they are putting armed parties on neutral ships and shooting our U-boats down. It cannot go on long thus with our U-boats unless the restrictions are removed. We are planning new methods.

I cannot see any reason for our men in the Foreign Office being proud just now. We have yielded at more than we should have done in return we have received more than one slap in the face before the whole world.

This was much easier for the Yankees as doubtless they had already heard from Jagow of the restrictions put upon our U-boats. Now the English know of it too and are jubilant. A prominent American in Berlin told a journalist that Germany's worst enemy was her Foreign Office.

* * *

Emanuelssegen, August 4, 1915.—I am sure that the proclamation was altered because of the great excitement it caused in Berlin. It is stupid of the press, inspired by the Chancellor, to talk so much about non-annexation. They read into the Emperor's words things he never meant to say.

Even if, as the Chancellor wishes, we do not keep Belgium, it is of no use at this present to influence the minds of our people in this direction. Under all circumstances we should conceal our purpose in order to enhance their value to turn the bargaining at the conclusion of peace in our favor.

I do not quite believe in the Reichstag since they veered round in the U-boat affair.

The entire Chancellor press advocates the keeping of Courland to make the loss of Belgium plausible to the nation.

* * *

Berlin, August 24, 1915. (To my wife.)—I have not yet heard how the Arabic case is going on.

Good Barnabe (Spanish ambassador) was just here. He came to interrogate me on the sinking of two Spanish vessels. Of course we know nothing about it because if it has been done by our U-boats we must await their return before we can learn anything positive.

Those who have been behind the scenes do not agree with Bethmann's sentimental policy. Our diplomats have acted wretchedly. There is one excuse. They were never given any aim, or if they were, for example the fraternizing with England, it was wrong. I am afraid however, that this idea is not yet extinct.

POLAND ENRAGED RUSSIA.

The creation of an independent Poland will make Russia our enemy for 100 years and through this it is not at all impossible that we may yet be subjected to England.

Instead of playing off Flemings against Walloons we take care of the land and strengthen a Belgian national feeling which in reality never before existed.

In respect to our reconciliation with Japan I have already accomplished something but there is not time now to tell about it.

In effect the Chancellor is saying to England, "I grant you have been faithless to me and you have been very nasty, but all the same I am ready to take you to my heart again. You leave me Russia and I will leave you Belgium.

* * *

Emanuelssegen, Aug. 26, 1915.—At a conference with the Emperor today the Chancellor wanted to assure the United States that no ships with American crews would be attacked. The Emperor could not bring himself to do this. He wanted to wait until he saw how far America would go over the last case. Falkenhayn had at first supported Bethmann, but when he saw how the Emperor felt he trimmed his sails and suggested waiting. Bethmann was serious, and said that he would not leave until a decision had been reached. He would not take the responsibility of defying the United States. The Emperor will probably surrender to the whole camarilla. The best that can be expected is to have nothing but secret orders issued. That always leaves the British in doubt as to what we are going to do. It is better than publishing one.

LUSITANIA CASE.

They are talking of submitting the great Lusitania case to a court for arbitration.

Bethmann is trying to surrender Belgium and crush Russia by establishing an autonomous Poland. Frederick the Great and Bismarck must have turned in their graves when he made this clear in his speech. I cannot conceive of the effect this will have on the opinion of the men in the trenches. Their desires will make themselves heard when it is too late.

* * *

Emanuelssegen, Aug 27, 1915.—Yesterday the Emperor had announced that the instructions to Bernstorff in regard to the demands of America would be discussed between the Chancellor and us in his presence. In the meantime, however, the Chancellor saw the Emperor this morning without our knowledge and talked him over to his way of thinking. We are now informed that the matter has already been decided.

I do not think that I can bear with this and I leave tomorrow evening for Berlin. Unfortunately I do not know what are the instructions to Hernstorff, but I shall demand them from the chancellor and their nature will determine my future course.

I think things are coming to an end with me.

League of Nations Mixup Confusing, Says Lansing

Washington, Oct. 14.—Whether Great Britain, France and Italy, following their ratification of the peace treaty, will proceed with the organization of a League of Nations without waiting for the United States to ratify is a question that is interesting State Department officials.

Under the treaty, when three nations have ratified, and the ratification is deposited at Paris, the league may be organized. There is a general belief here that the other nations should await action from the United States, however.

"At best the status of the whole thing is confusing," remarked Secretary Lansing today.

ROBERT HEARTZ 50 YEARS WITH GILCHRIST'S

Popular Organizer of Store's Benefit Association Has Golden Anniversary

Fifty years ago tomorrow Robert Hearts started his successful career with the Gilchrist Company. For a half century Mr. Hearts has steadily attended to business in this progressive store, filling many important positions and making thousands of friends.

Tomorrow will be "Hearts" day at the Gilchrist Company. An all-day reception will be held in the Employees' Club Room, on the third floor, where Mr. Hearts will be glad to meet all his friends.

Mr. Hearts is beloved and respected by everyone in the Gilchrist organization. He is a man of high ideals and a shining example of a good Christian. His uplifting spirit, and kind and generous heart have been of great help to everyone who has come in contact with him.

His sympathetic and consoling manner has been the foundation of the great friendship he has aroused. Employees of the store, young and old, come to Mr. Hearts with their business or domestic troubles, with the assurance of his confidence and help.

Robert H. Hearts was born in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, Canada.

At the age of fifteen he entered his uncle's dry goods store in that city, and served three years. He then came to Boston to visit relatives. He was about to return home when one morning while walking down Winter street he stopped in front of Churchill and Watson's dry goods store (now Gilchrist Co.) so much impressed was he with the fine appearance of this store that he walked in and applied for a position.

Col. Mr. Watson looked him over and said that he was too young, but asked him if he had any references. He produced an envelope full and Mr. Watson told him to come in again the next morning. The references were of such a high character that Mr. Watson hired him the next morning in spite of his boyish appearance. He put him to work in the lace department to try him out. There were so women employees in the store at this time. Later he was promoted to the ribbon department and in time became buyer of it.

When the firm's name was changed to H. & J. Gilchrist, Mr. Hearts was made floor superintendent and later he became store superintendent of the Winter street store.

The year Mr. Hearts an opportunity to turn his attention to the welfare of the employes. He organized the "Gilchrist Company Benefit Association" and was its president for thirteen years.

ROBERT HEARTZ, one of the most popular members of the big staff of the Gilchrist Co., has been fifty years with that store.

Smoke American Cigarettes

A serious shortage of tobacco in Italy has opened a market there for American cigarettes and a certain make has been bought by an official of the government, which has a tobacco monopoly, and placed on the market. Trade Commissioner Mac Lean of Rome has informed the Department of Commerce that other cigarette manufacturers may be able to obtain orders.

LEGION BACKS $100 BONUS FOR R. I. MEN

Governor Beeckman Claims State Must Redeem Pledges Made to Service Men

Providence, Oct. 14.—Officials of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars indorse the $100 bonus for service men which will be paid before the General Assembly adjourns through the medium of a special election when the voters will be asked to take a bond issue of $2,500,000, according to Governor Beeckman, who said today:

"At the present I feel the boys Rhode Island would not be found wanting and it is time for us to redeem the pledges made during the war. My first recommendation when the General Assembly convenes in January will be to call a special election and submit a referendum to the voters calling for a $2,500,000 bond issue to pay $100 bonus to soldiers, sailors and marines before they forget what it is for.

"Ordinarily legislative routine would cause a delay of over one year, but this is unnecessary and the deed is worthy of our immediate consideration."

WOMEN HIT BY LAMP IN FIGHT, IS CHARGE

Providence, Oct. 14.—Pending the outcome of injuries received by two women who were hit, the police say, by a lighted lamp thrown by Frank Williams, forty-one, of Providence place, Williams is held in $5,000 on two charges of assault. The women, Edith Jonnson, thirty-two, and Mary Gray, thirty-six, are also on the danger list at the Providence Hospital. According to the police, they first stated that their injuries were due to the accidental overturning of the lamp, but later when they realized the seriousness of their condition they admitted that the lamp had been thrown at them during a row.

FARE INCREASE OPPOSED BY CONRY

Democratic Nominee for Attorney-General Protests R. R.'s Petition to Director Hines

In a letter to Walker D. Hines, Director-General of the railroad Administration, Joseph A. Conry, Democratic candidate for Attorney-General, protests against the petition of the steam railroads for increased fares on suburban traffic.

The text of the letter follows:

"Permit me to enter my vigorous protest against allowing the petition of the steam railroads entering the city of Boston to increase the rates of fare on certain suburban traffic. This petition is but a poorly disguised scheme to bolster up the present fares on the principal trolley system of the city and suburbs.

"The petition was ill-advised, poorly presented and cannot be supported by any economic theory, nor is it warranted by the facts of the situation. The very ones who are loudest in their denunciation of government ownership or control are among those urging this increase of fare, and after the roads have been returned to private ownership these same men will be the most bitter in their denunciation of government management, holding up to ridicule this very increase as evidence of incompetency.

"Let me emphasize the fact that the increase is sought for at this time not because of the necessity of more income but rather as an excuse in sympathy for the intolerable effect railway fares and conditions, for which the car riders are certainly not to blame. To allow this petition would be an unwarrantable interference with local affairs not justified by any principle of scientific railroad administration."

MERCHANTS IN PRICE WAR; CONSUMERS GET BENEFIT

Gettysburg, Pa., Oct. 14.—One of the merriest wars in price reduction was waged here between two merchants with lemons as the commodity. A store conducted by Leo H. Miller had been selling goods cheaper than the other stores in town. The climax arrived when the Miller store announced that they would sell lemons at 17 cents a dozen, while the other stores were charging between 40 and 60 cents a dozen.

Almost immediately the other stores in town announced that they were selling lemons at 15 cents a dozen. The signs announcing the price of lemons were changed as fast as they could be made with a few cents reduction each time, until the price was brought to five cents a dozen.

SIGHT HULK OF OLD "SANTA CLAUS" SHIP

Chicago, Oct. 14.—The hulk of an old ship said to resemble the old Rouse Simmons, the "Santa Claus" ship which went down in a gale in 1912 with eighteen persons on board, has been reported by the S. S. Carolina.

The remains of the old ship, believed to have been released by an artless caprice of nature, was sighted in Lake Michigan a few miles from Chicago.

GLEE CLUB IS BIG FEATURE AT KEITH'S

One of the best bills so far this season opened to enthusiastic audiences at Keith's yesterday. Almost any one of the acts could be used as a headliner. The biggest act on the bill, in point of numbers, was the United States Glee Club, composed of former enlisted men in the navy and led by Jerry Swinford, who wears the insignia of a lieutenant, junior grade.

This organization, which shows the results of thorough training and masterly leadership, gave a long and pleasing program of songs and specialties, ranging from jazz and camp numbers to Southern revival melodies. The boys are clever performers, and boast of a good quartet as well as several good soloists.

Herbert Williams and Hilda Wolfus, in their uproarious skit, "Hark, Hark, Hark," have all their comedy and a lot of new stuff, and for nearly twenty minutes kept the audience in a continuous uproar. Mr. Williams is one of the best comedians on the Keith circuit, and his property piano, stool and anchor and famous shoes are enough to get him by any time.

"For Fifty's Sake," a travesty on the old-time ten-twenty-thirty melodrama, featuring Thomas Duray and a large cast, is another laughable act. It has all the old thrills of the past with the hero, the beautiful heroine, the sheriff and the villain, who forecloses the mortgage on the old homestead.

Eric Zardo, a pianist, made his first appearance here after a concert tour and gave an excellent program of classical music, with a skill and technic that classes him among the best of his art who have appeared on the vaudeville stage.

Other acts on the bill were Burns Bros. in an acrobatic act; Helene "Smiles" Davis, the girl who introduced the song for which she is nicknamed to thousands of doughboys in France; Alfred Latell, assisted by Miss Elsie Yokes, displaying Mr. Latell's ability as an animal actor, and Dolores Vallecita and her performing leopards.

DECLARES AIRPLANE IS FUTURE TRANSPORT

That the airplane of the present is as safe in the hands of a good pilot as a motor car is in the hands of an expert driver, was the declaration of Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, who lectured before a large audience in Symphony Hall on his experiences with Captain Alcock on the first non-stop flight across the Atlantic ocean.

"The airplane will be the transport of the future," he asserted. "We have shown that we can fly across the Atlantic, but it is not an ideal machine for crossing the ocean. A flying-boat is required, but the weight of fuel is so great that there is no chance for freight or any but a few passengers.

"For commercial flights the airplane serves well up to 1,000 miles, but beyond that the dirigible balloon will remain the most practicable means of transport until some new motive power is discovered."

Lieutenant Brown, with numerous films, showed the setting up of the big Vickers plane, and told how their first trial flight almost proved their finish, for Alcock shut off the wrong tap, so that the supply of petrol began to fail, and the machine to fall. "Had the engines stopped, so close to the sea, it would have been impossible to start them again, and it would have been all over with us," he said.

The audience was thrilled by the lecturer's description of how the machine once went into a spin, and they came down near enough to the ocean, "on edge," to hear above the sound of the engines, as well as to see, the sea, barely escaping a plunge beneath, when Alcock succeeded in righting the plane.

They had no desire for food through all the 15 hours and 57 minutes of their flight, but were avid for the coffee they carried.

Plays That Remain

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—The concluding week of the engagement of Henry Miller and Blanche Bates in Phillip Moeller's drama, "Molière," began at the Hollis Street Theatre. It is admirably acted.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Florence Moore began the ninth week of her visit in Boston in the lively farce, "Breakfast in Bed," at the Plymouth Theatre.

TREMONT TEMPLE—Mary Pickford and "Daddy Long Legs" are nearing the end of their long engagement at Tremont Temple. The picture is an artistic and touching portrayal of the lively little orphan girl, whose pretty romance ends happily. This is the last week but one.

SHAKESPEARE PROGRAM BY CRAIG

The Craig Players opened the week at the Arlington Theatre last evening with a noteworthy production of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," with William H. Powell as Romeo and Mary Young as Juliet.

While Mr. Craig, who has long been a student of the great dramatist, has appeared as Romeo, he has chosen for the present to play the role of Mercutio.

He is well suited to the part, for he has a light comedy touch that is artistic, and his "Queen Mab" speech was given in a most pleasing manner. Mary Young's performance as Juliet has mellowed and sweetened with her experience. Mr. Powell was an effective and almost enthusiastic Romeo. Mr. Rickford the Tybalt, Hetley Barnecat the Lady Capulet and Miss Coford the Nurse.

"Romeo and Juliet" will be repeated this and Wednesday evening and Wednesday afternoon and the remainder of the week will be devoted to "Hamlet," with Mr. Craig in the title role and Miss Young as Ophelia.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"Buddies," with Donald Brian, Peggy Wood and Roland Young, opened the last week of its long engagement here at the Park Square Theatre, with matinee and evening performances.

HODGE SEEN IN COMEDY ROMANCE

William Hodge brought "The Guest of Honor," a new three-act comedy written by himself, to the Wilbur Theatre, opening with the usual holiday matinee.

The play is announced as a "comedy romance of New York life." It centres about the figure of a struggling young author, poor in this world's goods, but one who has stored up a wealth of affection and gratitude by befriending every waif and stray who has crossed his path, paying other people's bills he has drained his resources to the degree that he cannot pay his own, and by the end of act one he has been ordered out of the miserable attic room which he calls studio and home.

In the meantime, he has adopted the child of a friendless young woman who died in the lodging house. It develops that a poem he has submitted in a prize contest wins the award, and he is visited by a group of smart young women who urge his presence at a luncheon to be given in his honor. Dismayed by their finding him in such poverty, he passes himself as the poet's secretary, with the result that when he attends the luncheon he is ordered out by the irate father of the hostess. This historic scene, however, is not witnessed by the spectator, who learns of it through the humorous account given by the ejected poet.

Through the experience, however, he meets the girl, enacted by Jane Houston. A plot of engrossing human interest develops out of the circumstances of the young mother whom the poet befriended before her death.

The first act is held together almost entirely by the personality of Mr. Hodge. There is little action, and during the first half of act two the action drags. From the point where Rosamond recognizes the photograph on Weatherbee's desk the story moves swiftly, and leaves a pleasant taste.

A wholesome play, its sentiment relieved by plenty of humor, much of it supplied by Jennie Lamont, as the family washerwoman.

Miss Houston's performance was extremely good, gracious, dignified and spirited.

Mr. Hodge was in characteristic vein, easily commanding the scenes in which he figured. His dialogue with Miss Houston in the last act was perhaps the most refreshing, as being most out of the common. At the end of the second act he made a brief curtain speech, thanking his auditors for their reception of the play.

The cast as a whole was excellent.

MISS PERRY IS HATER OF MEN

Buster Perry hates men.

No one would think it to see her in "The Twentieth Century Maids," at the Gayety Theatre. But she says she does, and all on account of a girlish vow not to marry until she is twenty-eight. Of course, that will be a long time yet.

Miss Perry is the soubrette of the show. At present she is only twenty-one. Although her profession naturally demands that she mingle with men and even enact love scenes with masculine members of the company, off the stage she prefers companions of her own sex.

A SCHOOL COMPACT.

"It isn't because I am priggish, or because I've been disappointed in love," she declared.

"When I was in a New Orleans convent five of us were on graduation day to renounce the companionship of men until we reached twenty-eight, and every year on January 1 we write to each other renewing our allegiance to the treaty.

"It was hard at first to refuse dinner and theatre invitations, but one by one all my boy friends disappeared. Of course that made it easier for me, but when I went on the stage I had to tolerate their company.

DOESN'T LIKE MEN A BIT.

"Instead of eagerly waiting for my twenty-eighth year so I may marry, I've just forgotten that I'm ever going to be that age, and I've got so that I don't like men a bit. That's why I take such interest in my work.

"If more girls would resolve to associate with only their own sex, some conceited young men might realize how insignificant they are."

Other Theatres

ORPHEUM THEATRE—Friends of Barron and Burt, popular local favorites, welcomed them at Loew's Orpheum Theatre, where they offered a comedy skit, "Shut Up." The story of San Francisco Chinatown, which Marie Stockwell & Co. produced, entitled "East Is West," was also seen. Harry Green, blackface comedian; Bell A. Carron; Delbridge & Gremmer, in songs, and Kimball and Kenneth, banjoists, completed the vaudeville. The feature photoplay showed Doris Barrimale in "Kitty Kelly, M. D." A Mack Sennett comedy was also on the bill.

MODERN AND BEACON THEATRES—Major Robert Warwick, in "In Mizzoura," and Billy Burke, in "Sadie Love," divide the honors at the Modern and the Beacon theatres this week. Major Warwick takes the part of Jim Rathburn, sheriff, in Augustus Thomas' famous play. "Sadie Love" deals with the adventures of a romantic young woman married to an Italian Count, but believing herself in love with a former American sweetheart."

PARK THEATRE—"The good old days" of melodrama are revived in "Checkers," shown this week at the new Park Theatre. As a play from the pen of Harry M. Blossom, "Checkers" enjoyed a nation-wide vogue, and the screen version is in some ways an improvement on the play. The great horse-race scene, for example, is a real race, and there are other realistic features.

WALDORF THEATRE — Aurora Madiganian, twenty-year-old sole survivor of the Turkish massacre of 500,000 young Armenian girls, both in person and on the screen in the "Auction of Souls," is the big feature at the Waldorf Theatre this week. Miss Madiganian lectures every afternoon and evening on her experiences, illustrated in the picture, and today begins a series of special appearances for women only, at 10 a. m. daily. The picture drew large crowds all day.

WALDRON'S CASINO—Jacobs & Jerson's latest production, "The Burlesque Review," with more than fifty performers, is shown at Waldron's Casino. The cast includes Harry K. Morton, Zella Russell, Irene Meara and others.

GAYETY THEATRE — Ed Lee Wrothe opened an engagement at the Gayety Theatre with "The Twentieth Century Maids," one of the best shows ever seen at this playhouse. Among the principals are Milo Balcette, Lee Hickman, Clare Evans, Buster Perry and Bonna Haig.

GLOBE THEATRE—Bessie Barriscale's brown eyes won new friends in "Kitty Kelly, M. D.," shown at Loew's Globe Theatre, yesterday. "Little Orphan Ann," with an all star cast also afforded entertainment.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—At Loew's Columbia Theatre Louis Dennison's recent success, "The Road Called Straight," was shown in connection with Gladys Brockwell in "Broken Commandments." Today Lieutenant Bert Hall will be shown in "A Romance of the Air," a picturization of his book entitled "In t'Air." Herbert Lyell in "Easy to Make Money" will also be featured.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA—Madge Kennedy as Fanny O'Gorman in the new picture, "Strictly Confidential," is being shown at Gordon's Olympia. The plot centres about a young married woman who finds that her twenty or more newly acquired servants are all relatives of hers. The vaudeville includes the three Herbert Sisters, Adelaide Boothby and Charles Eredeau, Ash & Hines, Jessie Haywood & Co., and Cecile, Eldred and Carr.

SCOLLAY SQUARE OLYMPIA—"Sombrero, Ltd.," featuring Bert Lytell, was shown at the Scollay Square Olympia. The Olympia Weekly and a new Lyons-Moran comedy complete the picture program. There is a good vaudeville bill.

BOSTON THEATRE—At the Boston Theatre, this week, George Beban is seen in a photo-drama by W. H. Mc-Coy, the tale of an Italian who comes to the Western desert, and whose motherless boy becomes the idol of the rough people in the border country. The comedy film is entitled "Up to Al's Place."

FENWAY THEATRE — Holiday crowds witnessed "A Widow by Proxy" with Marguerite Clark, and "The Winchester Woman," with Alice Joyce, at the Fenway Theatre. The bill, continuing today and tomorrow, will be succeeded by Charles Ray in "The Egg Crate Wallop," and Olive Thomas in "The Spite Bride."

LEW FIELDS IN LIVELY COMEDY

No one could be less lonesome than Lew Fields in "A Lonely Romeo," which opened an engagement at the Shubert Theatre with a holiday matinee. A perfectly good wife and family, numerous lady friends, a lively chorus and several whirlwind dances bore Romeo company, and his problem seemed to be rather what to do with all the persons who strove for his society, than how to while away his solitude.

He waited it away, according to the plot, by living a double life, that of the elderly proprietor of a smart hat shop by day, and that of a young man-about-town and gay Lothario by night. For his latter role Augustus Tripp—his name in family life—transformed himself, a wig, a young man's suit and a dazzling parlor workshop being his means. He did not recognize him when he was inadvertently caught by her in this disguise, although the resemblance to Friend Husband struck her so forcibly that Romeo was forced to involve himself still further by trying to explain. Mr. Field was very much in the vein, and kept the audience laughing. Miss Cameron and the other young women were charming, and the chorus unusually attractive.

There is no mistake about the piece having a real plot, the unfolding of which is interspersed with many an animated song and dance. While the music, by Melvin M. Franklin and Ballard Hood Bowers, is not very original, it makes up in rapid tempo and provocative rhythm what it lacks in other respects and includes several numbers which achieved immediate popularity.

Besides Mr. Fields, the cast includes Willie St. Clair, Frances Cameron, Catherine Van Pelt, Jack Kellar, Eleanor Henry, Harry Clarke, Ken Lynn, Octavia Brooks, Herbert Fields, Frank Froane and the Penn Four—Arthur Ball, Clarence Levy, Richard Rinke and Jack Kellar. There were solo and duet dances by Jessica Brown and Dot Wilson, Simmel Nirmeyer, Willie and Nellie St. Clair.

Coming Events

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Mrs. Fiske in "Mis' Nelly of N' Orleans" comes to the Hollis Street Theatre beginning next Monday.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"The Challenge," a new play by Eugene Walter, starring Holbrook Blinn, opens at the Park Square Theatre next Monday.

SPALDING WILL BE SYMPHONY SOLOIST

Albert Spalding, violinist, who has recently returned from two years service as lieutenant in the Aviation Corps in Italy, will be the soloist at the second pair of Symphony Concerts, next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening. Mr. Spalding will play Dvorak's violin concerto in A minor. The rest of the program will consist of Rubinstein's Symphony in B-flat minor, No. 1, Op. 26, and Enesco's orchestral suite, Op. 9.

DOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE—The Keystone Bathing Girls scored a hit at the Dowdoin Square Theatre, where Dorothy Haver, Kittie Phelps and other favorites were given an enthusiastic welcome. William Fordham and Kathlyn Williams in the Rex Beach production, "The Spoilers," five vaudeville acts, a continuation of "Smashing Barriers," and a Harold Lloyd comedy complete the bill. Today and for the week Dorothy Dalton will be seen in "The Market of Souls."

WABAN MAN DIRECTS RED CROSS SPEAKERS

PAIR HELD UP AND ROBBED IN DOORWAY

Thieves Get $150 and Two Gold Watches at Point of Gun

James Vanasse, of No. 148 Sumner street, North End, and Guiseppi Ferretti, of Bennington avenue, East Boston, reported to the police of the Bennington street station that they were held up and robbed of $150 and two gold watches in a Leverett street doorway early today, when four men held them into the entrance of a store to purchase some liquor they had for sale.

According to the statements of the robbed men, after they went to the sidewalk, one of the four holdups pointed a revolver at them and ordered the contents of their pockets emptied into a hat. After relieving their booty the robbers waved their victims to remain in the doorway until they had disappeared.

"Gets-It" Peels Your Corns Right Off

Two Drops Will Do It Without Pain or Trouble. Never Fails.

There's only one way to get rid of a corn, and that is to peel it off as you would a banana skin. There is only one corn remover in all the world that does it that way, and that is "Gets-It." It is because of this fact that "Gets-It" is today the biggest selling anti-corn-ouch on this planet. It means the end of "corn-diddling." For hard corns, soft corns, old corns, tender corns, corns between the toes and callouses, it means the end of certain misery. "Gets-It" is applied in 2 or 3 seconds. All you need is 2 or 3 drops. As easy as assigning your name. It does away forever with tape, plasters, bandages, knives, corn-diggers, scissors, files and blood-letting razors. Your corns—pain, be corn-free at last.

More About Shoes

Has the thought ever occurred to you that your shoes are the most harshly treated articles in your wardrobe? Not from the point of view of neglect or carelessness, but in ordinary every day usage.

They must be built to carry weight, to stand severe contact with rough pavements, to battle with all kinds of weather, and through all this they must retain those qualities that first appealed to you.

The fruit vendor has learned that first impressions are received through the eye, therefore, when he polishes up his apples and turns the brightest side out, he is simply making the most of the inclination of most people to be guided by the eye. To bite the apple is to test the sincerity of his motives.

So it is with shoes. The test comes in the amount of service you receive for your expenditure. What profits it a person to save in price and pay in loss of satisfaction. Surely there is more value to you in a shoe that not only looks well but lives up to the expectations aroused by its appearance when new.

Remember this, beginning at $9 we have concentrated all our efforts toward giving our customers the best possible shoes at their respective prices.

KLOBY IS BEATEN BY DUNDEE

18,000 Fans See Y.D. Champion Outpointed in Tussle at Lawrence

By JACK CONWAY.

Johnny Dundee crushed the championship aspirations of Young Kloby, when he gave the Y. D. champion a terrific beating in their twelve-round bout in the open-air arena of the Atlas Club at Lawrence.

Dundee, master boxer and born fighter, won every round. He jumped into the lead shortly after the bell sounded at the opening of the first session. He was so far out ahead when the contest ended that the task of Referee Roy Green was an easy one.

Kloby had been completely outclassed. His right eye was closed, while his left eye was bruised; his lower lip was cut, and his body was battered. All Kloby had left was gameness. Even when his defeat was certain and he was being made the target of stinging left and right hand blows, Kloby fought back courageously. His was a lost cause, but he refused to acknowledge defeat until Referee Green had awarded the decision to Dundee.

The contest was witnessed by 18,000 fans. There were 6,000 persons seated on the chairs on the ground; 8,000 filled the bleachers and a special grandstand; 2,000 more crowded the aisles and every other available inch of space within the arena; beyond the arena on the housetops and on barns and warehouses at least 1,000 more secured places from which to witness the battle.

CROWD HANDLED WELL.

It was the best handled boxing crowd that has ever witnessed a big bout in the East. The Cuddy brothers, John and George, were in charge of the entire affair. They saw to it that everybody got their right seats and that there was not any pushing or crowding either inside or outside the arena.

It was their first show since staging the Britt-Valger bout last Summer. They did much to remove the stain on boxing caused by the recent Kloby-Fitzsimmons contest.

Dundee fought true to form. He won as those who have followed his wonderful career expected he would. His dazzling attack and remarkable defence were too much for Kloby, who relied almost entirely upon a right-hand punch to win his honors. The Y. D. champion's only hope of victory was by putting over a wild haymaker.

Dundee hopped into the lead in the first round. He kept at close quarters most of the time and ripped sharp left and right-hand smashes to Kloby's head and body. In one of these torrid mixups, Dundee opened Kloby's lower lip.

GREATER SCORES.

Kloby scored with a couple of short jolts. He fought desperately, but could not seem to solve Dundee's method of attack.

In the second stanza, Dundee put on speed, and danced around the ring at a terrific clip. While trying to keep up with Dundee, Kloby slipped and went to one knee. He was on his feet like a flash fighting hard.

Dundee scored repeatedly with his left and bounced off the ropes a couple of times. Kloby was bewildered by his rival's speed.

The third session was much like the second. Kloby slipped once more, while Dundee kept increasing his lead. He took more liberties with Kloby in this frame than he had dared to do up to this time. As Kloby would let drive with a right hand punch, Dundee would step in close quickly and cross his own right to his opponent's jaw. Dundee's blows always landed first, and he would then get in close before Kloby could land a wallop.

SWAP PUNCHES.

Dundee stood and swapped punches with Kloby in the fourth round. The Y. D. champion was showing well at this line of campaign when Dundee decided the safest thing for him to do was to outbox his heavier opponent. This he did in the fifth round.

Dundee continued his whirlwind attack in the fifth session and Kloby's right eye began to close. The optic closed up tight in the next round. As Dundee kept sending punch after punch to the mark, Kloby began to tire.

Dundee at all times kept Kloby's face turned toward the sun. He did this by selecting his ring point from which to start an attack and by turning the Lawrence man around in the clinches.

DUNDEE SETS PACE.

The seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth rounds saw Dundee setting the pace. Kloby's friends rooted for him to come through with a knockout, but he was hardly able to land any kind of a solid punch. This was due to Dundee's elusiveness and dazzling left hands. Johnny also called his right into play in these rounds and scored on numerous occasions with smashing blows over the heart and to the kidneys.

Kloby made a desperate spurt in the eleventh round. He rushed at his opponent, swinging wildly with mighty left and right hand blows. But Dundee kept inside of Kloby's swings and sent crushing punches to his right head and body.

Toward the end of the round, Kloby tired and held on in the clinches for the first time in the contest. He had made his supreme effort and had lost.

The twelfth round was all Dundee's. At the close of the contest the only mark Dundee carried was a badly swollen ear, the result of one of Kloby's stiff punches at close quarters.

A DUNDEE CROWD.

Even though the contest was staged in Lawrence, it seemed as though it was a Dundee crowd. This was partly due to the many followers of Dundee who work in the mills at Lawrence and to the large number of fans who made the trip to Lawrence from Greater Boston. Then, too, it was apparent that the Fitzsimmons bout did not help Kloby's popularity. Many of the fans who were his greatest admirers before that affair rooted for Dundee to win decisively.

Mike Castle of Lawrence defeated K. O. Charley Brennan of Charlestown in the semi-final bout of eight rounds. Johnny Sullivan of Lawrence referred the preliminaries.

Kid Timons of Lawrence stopped Johnny Moran of Salem in three rounds, while Joe Delmont and Kid O'Brien, both of Lawrence, went six frames to a draw.

AHEARN AND WILSON SIGN FOR TWELVE-ROUND BOUT

Jake (Young) Ahern and Johnny Wilson have signed to meet in the feature bout of twelve rounds at the Fenway A. A.'s show in Mechanics Building next Monday night. These men were booked to meet last week, but it was necessary to call off the match when Ahearn was taken ill with neuritis. The South Boston 158-pounder is once more in good condition and is at Diamond Hill, R. I., preparing for his contest with Wilson.

It will be the third meeting between these boxers. Their first tussle was a draw. Wilson then got the honors by a knockout in six rounds, although many of the fans who witnessed the contest were of the opinion Ahearn had been fouled.

DERN HERE FOR BIG TUSSLE ON THE MAT

Ira Dern of Salt Lake City, who is considered one of the cleverest wrestlers that the West has produced, arrived in Boston today to put the final touches on his training for his bout with Walno Ketonen, Thursday night, at the Grand Opera House.

This bout will be the main attraction on the program on the opening night of the season, and will be two falls out of three. Ketonen, who comes from Worcester, is considered one of the premier performers of the East, and the meeting between these two sectional stars will excite a great deal of interest among the wrestling fans.

Cleve Hawkins Quits

Pittsfield, Oct. 14.—Cleve Hawkins quit in the tenth round of a bout with Silas Green before the Twentieth Century Club. Green had the better of the last two rounds and Hawkins refused to continue when the gong rang for the eleventh round.

NEW HAVEN MARKSMAN IS WINNER IN MONTCLAIR SHOOT

George Osborn, champion trap shot of Massachusetts, and (above) the Montclair Gun Club building.

A field of eighty-seven shooters from all over New England met at the Montclair Gun Club to decide both the amateur and professional New England championships.

The amateur championship was captured by F. O. Williams of New Haven, Ct., after a tough race and a hard shoot-off with H. Sedgwick of Hartford, Ct. Williams, shooting in the tenth squad, turned in the first big score quite early, and his 146 on the score board looked pretty good for the high prize.

Sedgwick in the meantime had only dropped two in his first seventy-five and broke the next two events straight, making the largest run of the day, 91 straight. Going into the last event he had the chance of winning the big event by breaking either 24 or 25, or tieing Williams with 23. He did the latter, losing two targets in the last five. In the shoot-off Williams shot steady and ground his twenty birds to pieces. Sedgwick dropped two and lost the title to Williams.

E. C. Griffith of Pascoag, R. I., made a strong bid for the title, his score of 146 being only one behind the leaders. W. M. Boylston of Leesburg, Florida, also turned a score of 146, and right behind were C. H. Dillon of Providence, R. I.; F. E. Watkins of Hartford, Ct., and W. E. Staunton of Boston, Mass., all with scores of 144.

The professional championship also resulted in a tie between W. G. Hill of Portland, Maine, the Remington Arms Co. professional, and G. H. Chapin of Brookfield, Mass., the Parker Bros. representatives.

The race for State teams was a close race between the Rhode Island State team and the Massachusetts No. 2 team, Rhode Island winning by three birds. The teams finished as follows:

RHODE ISLAND.

First—Weaver, Griffith, Dillon, Stoson, Bowler—473.

MASSACHUSETTS NO. 2.

MANAGER MORAN GIVEN BONUS OF $5,000

Cincinnati, Oct. 14.—Manager Pat Moran has been presented with a $5000 bonus by the Cincinnati Baseball Club. Along with his share of exhibition game receipts and his regular salary he is the highest paid baseball man of the year, with the exception of John McGraw. Players Charlie See and Hank Schreiber also were given extra money in addition to what the players' allotment gave them.

COLUMBIA FACES HARD GAME WITH WILLIAMS

New York, Oct. 14.—Columbia has started to work in earnest for the game with Williams Saturday. This contest will be as hard as any on the schedule, as coaches were not pleased with the playing of the team in the Vermont game, but were given an opportunity of observing the team's faults and are going out to correct them by Saturday.

The coaching staff was augmented by the arrival of Tom Thorp, who has coached the line in past years, and gave the men a long drill. Thorp took charge of the line, attending to the individual faults of the men. He lined up a first and second team line men up against each other, drilling them in blocking through and in charging.

TENDLER AND NOYES TO BOX AT DENVER OCT. 21

Denver, Oct. 14.—Johnny Noyes, the Paul lightweight, has been matched for a twelve-round bout here with Lew Tendler, the Philadelphia pugilist for Benny Leonard's lightweight title. The bout will be held October 21.

Bobby Dyson Is Easy Winner Over Girard

Bobby Dyson, New England bantamweight champion, was awarded the decision over Al Girard of the North End, in the feature bout of twelve rounds at the Commercial A. C. Girard's right eye was opened in the second round, and he was also floored in the fifth and the eighth. Dyson showed great cleverness all through the bout and outpointed his opponent most of the way.

In the semi-final, a scheduled eight-round bout, Johnny Mooney of Newton won over Young Chodo of the North End in the second round, the latter's seconds throwing in the towel. Arthur Ross was unable to come out in the second round of another scheduled eight-round bout, and a knockout in Tootsie O'Toole's favor was rendered. In the six-round opener Mike Silva of Cambridge had enough in the first round, his opponent, Young Ambrose of the same city, winning.

On account of the first three bouts being so short an extra match was staged, Johnny Mario of East Boston and Frank Rogers of New Bedford boxing a six-round draw.

DORMITORY TEAMS TO RACE AT HARVARD

The freshman interdormitory cross-country championship will be decided at Harvard late today, when teams from Gore, Smith and Standish Hall meet in a four-mile run. The men making the best showing in the race will form the regular freshman squad, for which several races have been arranged. A captain for the team will also be selected Thursday.

BRADY AGAIN LOSES TO FRANKIE BRITT

Detroit, Oct. 14.—Frankie Britt of New Bedford defeated Ralph Brady of Syracuse, outfighting the latter in nine of ten rounds.

HILL BATTLES VALGER AT TRIPLE A

Jimmy Hill, Australian lightweight, will oppose Benny Valger of New York, in the feature bout of twelve rounds, at the Armory A. A.'s show in Mechanics Building tonight.

It will be Hill's second American appearance. He made his debut in this city last Tuesday night, when he fought a twelve-round draw with Barney Adair. Many of the fans who witnessed the contest were of the opinion Hill was entitled to the decision.

Hill has had difficulty in getting matches in this country as he has made a reputation as a fast, clever boxer. Most of the American lightweights are not anxious to take any chances of being outpointed.

The Australian hops around the ring much like Johnny Dundee. He can land a blow from almost any angle, while he fights back hard after receiving a solid punch on the jaw or body.

Maybe Hill got some of his speed while engaging in foot races in Australia. Then, again, he possibly learned to move around at a lively clip while directing his fleet of taxicabs at Sidney, Australia.

Valger has shown well in all of his Boston starts. He defeated Frankie (Young) Britt and Charley Parker, while he had a hard battle with Dundee. For six rounds Valger outpointed Dundee, but then slowed up and lost the decision.

Shaver O'Brien of South Boston and Billy Duffy, Everett welterweight, will clash in the semi-final whirl of eight rounds. There'll also be a couple of six-round bouts.

OPEN PRACTICE AT YALE FROM NOW ON

New Haven, Oct. 14.—Orders have been given by the Yale football management for the gates of the Bowl to be opened at every daily practice till the close of the season. It has been decided that the plans for the development of the scoring plays of the team in secret do not interfere with the wish to open the gates and allow the undergraduates to see the candidates at work during part of the practice.

The coaches feel that not only do the undergraduates have their enthusiasm for the sport kindled by being present at the daily practice, but that the players are much influenced by the presence of a few hundred of the undergraduates on the seats of the Bowl daily.

TEAM WILL ADVANCE.

Since the squad reported a month ago today, it has worked behind closed gates. This is allowed a more rapid development on than any recent fall team has been able to secure, and as a result the Yale eleven is today farther advanced in rudimentary football and the execution of straight formation than any of the Yale teams of the past decade.

Plans for the future of the season call for secret practice during the first part and open work during the later half of each afternoon's drill. The coaches feel that fifty must continue daily secret work, and the restrictions against admission of any except members of the squad are the most closely drawn in Yale's history.

NO PROTEST BY FACULTY.

The faculty, which has in previous years stoutly opposed secret practice, has made no protest this season, but the coaches have reached th conclusion that the presence of a liberal attendance of undergraduates inside the Bowl will be one of the most effective methods of stimulating interest in the development of the team.

The squad now contains six elevens, three termed the "varsity," and three the "college" group. The three varsity teams are under the direction of Coaches Sharpe, Brides and Cates; the college teams under that of Dr. Billy Bull.

HARVARD SECOND TEAM BEATS ABINGTON, 21 TO 0

The Harvard second football team defeated Abington A. A. on the latter's field by the score of 21 to 0. Three touchdowns were made, scattered through as many periods. Moras scored the first after hard line rushing, and Captain Wales, by some pretty footwork, landed the second. Mason was the third scorer. Wales kicked each goal.

DOBIE HAS NOT YET SELECTED NAVY BACKS

Annapolis, Oct. 14.—Contrasting situations as to the football captains are presented at the military and naval academies. At West Point, Captain George has not been able to make a place on the team, while Annapolis is likely to have Captain Eddie Ewen at right end for two seasons.

Last year there was no second class, and the third class, to which Ewen belonged, was expected to become the graduating class this season. Ewen was named as leader before the armistice was signed and the four-year course re-established, then the third class was divided into the first and second, and Ewen was allotted to the second class. Two of the regulars, Clark and Graves, are in the class above the captain.

There will be no match here until the Bucknell game on the 25th and a big development of the team may be expected by that time.

CLARK AND TREMBLAY GO 12 ROUNDS TO DRAW

New Bedford, Oct. 14.—Jackie Clark of Fall River and Eddie Tremblay of Canada boxed a twelve-round draw. Tom Andrews of this city beat Frankie Flynn of Fall River in an eight-round bout. Spider Kelly of this city stopped Joe White of Fall River in the third and Eddie Leary of Fall River won from Young Enos of this city on a foul in the second round.

ROBINSON AND REID IN BOUT AT FRAMINGHAM

Pal Reid of this city has hopes of kayoing George Robinson, Cambridge middleweight, when he clashes with that worthy in a twelve-round bout before the Casino A. C. of Framingham Thursday night. Reid is one of the hardest hitting men of his weight in this section of the country.

Robinson has been meeting all comers and is not worrying any over Reid's wallops.

BEGIN WORK FOR BROWN GAME TODAY

Football practice was resumed today at Harvard after the squad had rested up since Saturday's hard game with Colby. The long week-end task usually reserved for Monday was held over on account of the holiday, but lost none of its stinging enthusiasm on the bad plays of the Colby game through postponement.

Saturday's game was a frightfully poor showing on the coaches' debarment if the players were not aware of it, they learned it today and right. Nothing in the entire season will strike the men in charge of teaching as good football and it's backbreaking work if the coaching staff had valid reasons for the rubber line.

Eddie Mahan is in Cambridge today, and brand new togs were ready for him. The plans of the 1915 captain are still uncertain, but the Crimson coaching staff could use the big marine handily at this time.

MURRAY IN SHAPE.

Captain Murray declares that he is in shape again, and ready to start the brown game. The Crimson backfield acted like a gate with half a hinge Saturday when the jaggety little leader was not at his position as quarterback. Murray has the knack of keeping the backfield in a scoring mood, and the whole eleven works with him at the helm with confidence that is missing when the others take charge.

Winslow Pelton's fine forward passing apparently has sent his stock higher and keep him in the running as second string quarterback. Pelton is a comer. His brother Sam was one of Harvard's best in this line.

Phil Fluhlin's bad knee is all right now and he will return to his position as center. The shocky Mahan was not all the requirements of an ideal man for the pivot position, being built close to the ground and very heavy, and of an aggressive type Fluhlin's well-placed passes to his backs has helped him out in his candidacy for his place more than any other football attributes he has.

BROWN COMING ALONG.

Wynant Hubbard, the husky left tackle, and Mitchell Gratwick, one of the line-bucking backs, joined the infirmary brigade today but will be back for scrimmage by Thursday. Hubbard is an extremely valuable man and, now that Keith Kane is rounding into condition again, will have hard competition for his place. Gratwick is a third string back but is strong and willing and has two more years in Harvard football.

Fiske Brown, at right guard, continues to do fine work and at present is playing a typical Harvard game in the rush line. Brown is a Jerusalem boy, and before he came to college had never taken football seriously. He was a member of one of the scrub squads at Andover, but played the game more for fun than anything else.

Brown was freshman wrestling captain. He is also an adept at boxing. He has also a promise of developing into one of the best guards that ever graced Crimson football.

ARLINGTON TENNIS PLAYERS GO TO TIE

The final match for the club championship at the Arlington Heights Tennis Club, between Carl W. Patriquin and Marshall Wood, was called on account of darkness after each had won two sets. Patriquin won the first set, 6—3, and the third, 6—4. The other sets were won by Wood, 10—8 and 9—7. The match will be played off Saturday.

Army Grid Captain Fails to Win Place on Regular Eleven

A sifting process seemed to be going on at practice of the Army football team yesterday afternoon, but from all indications the coaching staff has not yet made a definite decision as to the personnel of the team that will represent the Army against Harvard at Cambridge next Saturday.

More than a month ago the candidates for the Army reported for practice, George was elected to the captaincy. He had previously played at the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, but by the rules of the game is known as a [illegible].

PRINCETON CAMP IN GLOOM OVER TEAM

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 14.—Coach Bill Roper had his Tiger eleven hard at work early and late in a determined effort to correct the glaring mistakes that cropped up in the Lafayette contest Saturday. No scrimmage was held, but the entire squad reported and was sent through a long, hard drill.

Eddie Shea and Frank Glick of the 1915 eleven played at ends during the dummy practice and pointed out the flaws of the work of the backs, while Hal Ballin coached the linemen in opening holes, a department in which the Tigers appear to be particularly weak. Later in the afternoon Glick took the punters in hand, while Shea coached the rest of the backfield men in tackling and handling the ball. Sweet, Lourie, Trimble and Wilmer all got off some nice punts, but their kicks are still far short of the length gained by hooters at Cambridge and New Haven.

The loss of Scurvenan has added another problem to the already busy task confronting the coaches.

CLOSE FINISHES MARK OLD COLONY CLUB RACES

Close finishes featured several of the races at the Old Colony Driving Club matinee at the South Weymouth track. In classes B and C the contenders raced in split heats for the final decision.

R. D. Stetson's bay mare, Liberty Bell, trotted the fastest mile of the afternoon, covering the first heat in class A, while Jimmy Forbes, Fred H. Ross's gelding won class C, trotting the second heat in 2.24.

The Repose of the Ocean

SCIENTIFIC investigations go to show that the roaring waves and the mightiest billows of the ocean repose, not upon hard and troubled beds, but upon cushions of still water; that everywhere at the bottom of the deep sea the solid ribs of the earth are protected from the abrading action of its currents.

The Wicked Marquis

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Love and Revenge Centre About an Agreeable English Aristocrat of the Old School

What Has Happened So Far

The Marquis of Maidleye, an Eng[illegible] nobleman of a type of days gone by, finds himself nearly bankrupt from[illegible] raised against the occupant of a cottage on his estate who refuses to vacate[illegible] own property. The Marquis solicitor informs him that the sum of eighteen thousand pounds is needed to settle the court bills and that it would be useless to make another appeal even to the li[illegible]ord. A young woman speaks to the Marquis in the grill room of the Ca[illegible] and he snubs her. David Thain, a young American billionaire protege of the Duchess, is introduced to the Marquis, who explains to the family his trouble with the cottage owner, Vont. Thain tells of crossing the ocean with a man of that name. The Marquis relates to Thain how he took the daughter of Vont away with him. After luncheon he calls on Martin Hannaway. She tells him that the allowance he has made her has not been paid recently, and he has a row with his solicitor about it. Thain is given a theater party.

"Something will have to be done," she sighed. Hubert went down and looked at the [illegible] the other day. He says they are simply a[illegible] acre missed [illegible] cards, you know—at Maidaley may have to go."

"I am getting perfectly [illegible] she confided. "If it did, I [illegible] would probably follow, father would realize everything he could lay his hands upon and he [illegible] spot of some [illegible] place. "Or marry——" Margaret began

The juxtaposition of words perhaps incited Letitia to greater interest as she turned away from her sister to welcome the first of her guests. He had to cross a considerable space of the drawing room, with its old-fashioned conglomeration of furniture untouched and unrenovated for the last two generations, but he showed not the slightest sign of awkwardness or self-consciousness in any form. The only singularity about his face and manner, as he took his hostess' fingers, was the absence of any smile of greeting upon his lips.

"I am afraid that I am a little early," he apologized.

"We are all the more grateful to you," Lady Margaret assured him. Letitia and I always bore one another terribly when a[illegible] sister, [illegible] you, for a rather [illegible] the [illegible] in the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

N. Y. Tax Rate Must Advance

Should the budget of the city of New York increase $60,000,000 to $300,000,000 next year, as is likely, the tax rate would have to be advanced from $23.20 to nearly $30 per $1,000 for 1920.

STEEL, OIL AND MOTOR ISSUES ALL DECLINE

Leaders Above Lowest Level by End of the Forenoon

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at noon, but the leaders were above the lowest price level of the morning and a number of issues were showing gains. Steels, oils and motors receded the most during the forenoon. Largest declines were by General Motors, Crucible, Mexican Petroleum, Studebaker, Texas Co., Bromberg, Atlantic Gulf, Baldwin, Republic Steel, Worthington Pump, White Motor, International Products and Beet Sugar. At their best they were off from four to more than twelve points. U. S. Steel sold down to 109¾, a decline of more than two points. Crucible Steel sagged to 133, a ten-point gain from its opening.

A number of issues were strong, including Industrial Alcohol, which had advanced twelve points at its highest, selling at 162.

The market was very active, transactions up to noon totalling more than 800,000 shares. Call money was first quoted at 8 per cent. In the foreign exchange market, demand sterling opened at $4.18, francs at $.67 and lire at 10.02.

OPENED WITH RECESSIONAL.

The market opened after a double holiday with brisk aggressive. Stocks were offered in quantity and buying orders received since Saturday were too few to affect selling pressure. At the start declines ruled small, but when it was found that support was lacking the element working for a decline increased their offensive. At the end of half an hour the market was quite weak. U. S. Steel, being off more than two points, General Motors and Mexican Petroleum more than three points, Studebaker more than six, Baldwin and Atlantic Gulf more than four. Among other notably weak issues were Bethlehem, American International, American Locomotive, Car & Foundry, Republic Steel, Texas Co., Corn Products, Kelly Springfield and several motors. After advancing five or four points to a record Liberty 1st price Pierce Arrow lost all the gain and receded almost three. Chandler, new to trading, opened at 122. Trading was active from the outset. The three leaders were buying, and before the end of an hour prices had rallied a little. The reaction had developed misgivings from conservative quarters.

UNEASY OVER PRESIDENT.

Wall Street is rather uneasy because of conflicting reports as to the health of President Wilson's illness. This was one cause of the bear raid. But in view of the remarkable ascension of many stocks recently the professional element was unanimous almost in the belief that a setback was due. Gains last week included Chandler 72, American Hide & Leather 11¼, American Woolen 24, Atlantic Gulf 12¾, Baldwin 17¾, Crucible Steel 14, Endicott Johnson 17¾, Fisher Body 29, General Motors 18, Kelly Springfield 11¾, Mexican Petroleum 29, Texas Company 39½, Stromberg 32¾, Studebaker 19¾, California Packing 26, Fairbanks 13 and Pierce Arrow 15, while withstanding the great onslaught of organized labor U. S. Steel advanced 4¾.

Cattle Supply About Normal

Although it has been estimated that the war reduced the stock of European cattle by 25,000,000 head, making a scarcity of leather as well as of beef, it is stated by the Department of Agriculture that the world supply of cattle, sheep and goats is now about normal. Decimation in Europe was balanced by increases in herds in other regions.

Anthracite Shipments

Shipments of anthracite in September totaled 5,667,401 tons, a decrease of 546,994 tons as compared with those for the corresponding month in 1918. August shipments were 6,144,144 as compared with 5,180,923 but the greatest decrease this year was in March when shipments totaled but 3,348,908 as against 7,276,777.

Union Pacific Earnings

August gross reported by the Union Pacific increased $573,589, while net decreased $248,911. For eight months the gain in gross was $13,747,629, and the decrease in net was $2,667,661.

COUNTRY'S OIL SUPPLY WILL LAST 16 YEARS

David White, oil geologist of the United States Geological Survey, estimates that oil underground in this country is equal to about sixteen years' supply at the present rate of consumption. He estimates that the amount not yet brought to the surface amounts to 6,740,000,000 barrels, of which 2,250,000,000 is in California. 1,725,000,000 in the mid-continent field and 490,000,000 in the Gulf coastal part of Texas. He believes that Mexico contains less than remains in the ground in the United States.

"The discovery of deep sands," says Mr. White, "is likely to add new fields to many old or even abandoned fields. Pools will be found after prolonged drilling and repeated settling of the old as well as new regions, and this is probably especially true of the Gulf coast, where, unless geologic discovery and consequent new methods come to the aid of the driller, it may be 75 years before some of the productive salt domes are revealed.

"The most significant feature of the prospect, however, is the probability that the peak of production will soon be passed—possibly within three years."

TRADING QUIET AND PRICES LOWER

Boston Market Yields to Bear Influences at the Outset

The Boston market had a weak tone at the opening, being affected by the same influences which caused the decline in New York. But the recessional trend here was not as strong as on the larger exchange. Declines locally were mostly fractional, and in the second hour prices were slightly above the lowest level of the forenoon.

Among the weakest issues were United Fruit, United States Smelting, Punta Alegre and Fairbanks. They receded from one to four points, with United Fruit sustaining the largest loss. But neither of these issues was active. Other stocks to decline were Parish & Bingham, Root & Van Dervoort, Libby, Swift & Co., Swift International, Copper Range, Calumet & Arizona, East Butte, Massachusetts Gas, Carson Hill, Stewart and Ventura.

Losses to show gains during the morning included Gray & Davis, which went up more than a point, Mullins Body, National Leather, Elder, International Products common and preferred and Davis Daly. Minor accessory shares were the most active class. Copper was more firm. Trading was not as active as during last week.

Cotton Consumption

Washington, Oct. 14.—The Census Bureau reports cotton consumption during September this year and last year, holdings and shipments respectively, as follows:

Spindles active, 34,216,682 and 33,485,181.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Oct. 14.—Competitive bidding by spinners caused October contracts at the opening of the cotton market here fully 100 points above those of Saturday. Later months rose from 50 to 60 points on general buying, largely based on heavy rains in Texas and predictions of rains in the belt generally. At the opening the list worked off a trifle from the highest, but soon rallied and then underscored. Opening prices were: October, 34.80; December, 35.16; January, 34.10, up 60; March, 33.80, up 55; May, 33.30, up 50.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Corn opened ⅛c to ¼c lower, then unchanged to ⅛c lower. Opening prices: December, 1.35; December, 1.21¾ to 1.22; May, 1.20¾ to 1.20⅝. Oats opened ⅛c to ¼c lower; May, 72¼c.

New York Sub-Treasury Gain

New York, Oct. 14.—The sub-treasury gained $562,000 from the banks on Saturday, making the net cash gain since Friday, $1,770,000.

$159,811 MORE FOR HARVARD FUND DRIVE

Subscriptions From 208 Members of Alumni Bring Total to $5,954, 554

Three days effort on the part of the canvassers for the Harvard Endowment Fund in Boston resulted in 208 of the alumni subscribing $159,811, which brought the Boston total up to $2,356,494. This amount added to $2,278,000 in New York and $1,320,060, made the grand total today $5,954,554.

Solicitors in the Boston district found some difficulty in locating persons on their lists because of the fact that a great many spent the three days out of town. With the resumption of business today it was expected that a long step would be taken in securing the desired fund of $15,350,000.

Some of the larger subscribers announced by the committee today were James Byrne, '77, of New York, $150,000; St. Pierre Hallowell, '97, of Boston, $15,000; Abraham Koshland, '90, of Boston, $5,000; Augustus P. Loring, '78, of Beverly, $5,000; Ralph B. Williams '98, of Boston, $5,000; E. F. Leland, '93, of Boston, $5,000; J. H. Perkins, '14, of New York, $2,000, and William B. Nichols '19 of New York, $1,000.

PASSENGER AIRSHIPS FOR OVERSEAS SERVICE

The British are planning to take the lead in the practical development of aerial navigation, Trade Commissioner Henry F. Grady reports from London to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington as follows:

"The Northern Aerial Syndicate is said to be arranging a passenger airship service to the United States. The plans are for airships carrying 150 passengers, in addition to staffs of cooks, stewards, and crew, to serve the westward and eastward passages between England and New York, Perth, Australia, will also be served, seven days being allowed for this journey. At Liverpool passengers from America will be transferred to smaller aircraft and taken to their destination. Moorings will be provided at leading hotels."

HINTS WILSON MAY KEEP RAILROADS

Indianapolis, Oct. 14.—Intimations that President Wilson may refuse to return the railroads to private control the first of the year, is voiced in a statement made by Charles E. Elmquist of Minneapolis, president of the National Association of Railway and Utilities Commissions.

Mr. Elmquist first asserted that, although public sentiment "undoubtedly is for the return of the railroads after passage of remedial legislation, there is danger that labor will make new demands if inasmuch as President Wilson has not succeeded thus far in reducing living costs."

Ministers' Work Deserves Decent Compensation

Rev. Curtis Lee Laws, editor of the Baptist Weekly Watchman Examiner, says in a public statement:

Unless the poorly paid clergy choose to suffer in want with their loved ones, or go into debt, the course open in these trying days is to quit the ministry and take some job by which they can decently support their families. It may be window cleaning or street sweeping.

There can be no doubt that the lot of the average clergyman in this country, under present conditions, is trying and unjust. These are days when few things are done for the sake of mere justice. These are days when "they shall take who have the power and they shall keep who can." Organized wealth and organized labor having the power and the training of organization, and wealth having its own inherent power, have alone been able to protect themselves under present conditions. Our clergy, our teachers in school and college are shamefully underpaid. Unless the community is prepared to say that they can do without good teachers and clergymen, something must be done to aid them.

Of course, there is a belief among a very large number of people that the clergy have failed in their duty as Christian, spiritual soldiers, to wage battle against economic evils which are wrong in themselves and were denounced by the Master and which produce the conventional vices on which all clergymen specialize. But this charge is not altogether justified, and if it were justified a few years ago it is certainly not justified now. It is impossible to read a Monday morning paper without seeing an account of some clergyman who is attacking a vested wrong. Even bishops are investigating conditions and challenging them with a courage unusual a few years ago. Moreover, we do not want to forget the great contribution which the Christian Church has rendered to the cause of sobriety in America. If they never did anything else, their fight against the strong drink that "is raging" is worthy of a public pension which will give them a decent living according to the American standards.

Already this newspaper has suggested that a campaign be organized for the aid of our clergymen. With all the high cost of living our people are throwing enough money away every day to put their clergymen upon a decent salary, and they would do it, too, if the matter could be called to their attention in a way that preserves the self-respect of the clergy in their districts. It would be perfectly easy to make a house-to-house canvass in a way that the Liberty Bonds and Red Cross funds were solicited and in the way that the Harvard Endowment Fund is now being solicited among the Harvard graduates. The country could be divided into districts naturally tributory to certain churches and an amount necessary for the income of the clergymen of those churches could be ascertained and the citizens of the district canvassed for the purpose of raising the required amount. The success of such a plan cannot be doubted.

Frothingham's Growth to Sound Leadership

Richard H. Long, Democratic candidate for Governor, in an argument in behalf of public ownership and operation of our street railways, quoted Lieutenant-Governor Frothingham's statement in favor of public ownership and operation of these important public utilities.

It is pleasant to note the development and unfolding of the political opinions of a man like Louis A. Frothingham. He began his political career a kind of little Lord Fauntleroy of the big interests, not personally corrupt and not personally conscious of doing anything against the public interest, but merely a good fellow in leading strings.

But as he acquired knowledge of things as they actually were, he has snapped one leading string after the other until now for several years he has been taking an independent view of public affairs and, following the guidance of his own intelligence and the promptings of his own public spirit, he has gone slowly but surely, and widened his vision so that he can see the interest of all, when, but a few years ago, he could see the interest of a few only. It is this kind of development, slow but sure, that is permanent and that makes a real good leader.

Example of Speedy Justice

District Attorney Tufts of Middlesex County has made rather a remarkable demonstration of the speed with which an energetic District Attorney can make justice overtake a criminal. Two men broke jail at Deer Island on Tuesday, September 30th. They swam through Shirley Gut, broke into a house and stole some clothes, then went to Watertown, where they held up a man with a gun and stole an automobile. That was on Tuesday. Justice started in pursuit of them. On Thursday she had overtaken them and arrested them in Connecticut. On Friday they were arraigned in the Waltham court. On Monday they were indicted in Cambridge. On Monday afternoon they were made to see the hopelessness of any defence and pleaded guilty, and District Attorney Tufts moved for a sentence immediately, asking that severe sentences be imposed. On Monday afternoon they were given from eight to eleven years in State Prison on the larceny and robbery charges.

This seemed to be the first sentence given under the new law making more drastic the punishment for automobile stealing. Mr. Tufts was commended by judges who presided at the court during the prosecution of these automobile cases for the swiftness with which he made justice overtake not only his example of apparently detached automobile stealing, but the great conspiracy of auto-mobile thieves.

More Truth Than Poetry

UNDESIRED SERENITY

By S. E. KISER

OUT where the bronzed leaves flutter
When the mild Autumn breezes blow,
Sad women stir apple-butter,
As their mothers did long ago.
Women who watch the bubbles
Where the savory masses boil,
And each has her special troubles,
And yearns to escape from toil;
Clinging to sad self-pity,
No doubt they would like to flee
To the busy and splendid city,
From work and from worry free.

WHERE the apples are red and juicy,
And the cider is fresh and sweet,
John lingers an hour with Lucy,
And often their glances meet;
Her lips and her cheeks are tinted
With a tint that is there to stay,
But why should his words be printed,
Why guess what she has to say?
For maybe she, also, is dreaming
While hearing his whispered pleas,
Of the city where towers are gleaming
And the people have endless ease.

OUT where no mobs run riot,
And the landlords are not insane,
Where the world is peaceful and quiet,
While some of life's joys remain,
Where the rooster may still strut proudly,
And the gobbler grows fat and sleek,
No vendors are bawling loudly,
No mangled, maimed people shriek.
But there, where no crowds are trying
To butter through guarded walls,
Are boys who work sadly, sighing,
And hating their overalls.

WHERE the farmer wears one suspender,
And the colts elevate their heels,
Where Nature spreads Autumn splendor,
And it doesn't cost much for meals,
Where the time-clock has not intruded,
And a dollar will still go far,
Where women are never denuded
Getting into a rush-hour car,
There are girls who are sick of enduring
The talk about weather and crops,
And they'd rather be manicuring
In beautiful barber shops.

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.—Unlike the homely girl who wrote you from Boston, I am supposed to be a very pretty girl. That I am beautiful has been dinned into my ears since I was a little child. But no one has ever told me that I am clever or witty or bright, and I'm not. I'm a poor fool who can't make and hold deep friendships. Men grab at me like a fish goes after a hook, and when they talk to me a little while they let go and beat it. What am I going to do? Some day I want to marry, and I don't want to marry a fool. DOROTHY R.

MY DEAR Dorothy.
IN THE first place.
IF YOU hadn't any sense.
YOU WOULDN'T know.
THAT YOU hadn't any sense.
WHATEVER THAT means.
AND THEN again.
IF YOU hadn't any sense.
YOU WOULDN'T care.
IF YOU hadn't any sense.
AND YOU'D be satisfied.
TO JUST be pretty.
AND BECAUSE you're not.
WE MUST conclude.
THAT YOU have good sense.
AND STILL you say.
THAT YOU seem unable.
TO HOLD on to a man.
AND ONCE on a time.
I KNEW a girl.
AND I have an idea.
SHE WAS just like you.
AND SHE had good sense.
AND WAS beautiful.
BUT SHE tried so hard.
TO MAKE people believe.
THAT IN spite of the fact.
THAT SHE ranked as a beauty.
SHE STILL had sense.
THAT SHE overdid it.
AND YOU couldn't tell.
IF SHE had no sense.
OR TOO much sense.
AND THERE are two sure things.
THAT MEN don't want.
WHEN THEY'RE seeking a wife.
AND ONE is a girl.
WHO HAS no sense.
AND THE other is a girl.
WHO IS so darn bright.
THAT THE poor fish husband.
WOULD GET to be known.
AS JUST the husband.
OF HIS wonderful wife.
AND, LISTEN, Dorothy.
YOU JUST forget.
THAT YOU'RE very pretty.
AND HAVEN'T any sense.
AND THE first thing you know.
SOME REALLY fine man.
WILL COME looking around.
FOR A really fine girl.
AND HE'LL pick you out.
AND IF you'll let him.
HE'L PROBABLY tell you.
THE REASON he wants you.
IS BECAUSE you're sensible.
AND A sensible girl.
IS THE sort of a girl.
THAT I think you are.
IF YOU'D just quit worrying.
ABOUT YOURSELF.
I THANK you.

Editor Boston American:

Will you kindly print the enclosed open letter?

To the Members of the United States Senate:

Gentlemen—Would it be possible to ratify the treaty with Germany, including the League of Nations, provided that the ratification were accompanied by a resolution declaring it to be the purpose of the United States to withdraw from the league at the end of two years if, at the expiration of that time, conditions are not on a satisfactory basis to the United States with regard to the following:

1. Representation in the assembly of the league.
2. The rights of the United States under the Constitution.
3. The Monroe Doctrine.
4. Shantung and the open door in China.
5. The right of self-determination and of protest by any group of persons against unjust conditions.
6. Equality of economic, industrial and racial opportunity.

SOFT MUSIC SOOTHING TO TIRED NERVES

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

ONE time when the philosopher Pythagoras was about to give a lecture a number of his younger students appeared inflamed with wine and evidently bent upon mischief. Apparently the ways of college boys were much the same then as now.

The bunch was noisy and turbulent as it filed in, defiantly shouting the ancient Greek equivalent for "Rah! Rah! Rah!" and certain at the least excuse to start a rough house.

A professor of the present day would either have dismissed the class and let the unruly element expend its exuberance outside, or else he would have tried to subdue them with a moral exordium and threats of discipline.

But wise, old Pythagoras simply delayed the opening of his lecture until he could send out for musicians, and when the latter arrived instructed them to play in the so-called Doric style, which was distinguished by the grave majesty of its sweep and rhythm.

Gradually, as the solemn strains stole out over the assembly, the tumult and frolicking subsided. The shame-faced youths removed the chaplets and garlands of flowers with which they had decked themselves, and one by one slunk to their seats; and Pythagoras, at last opening his lecture, was able to hold absolute attention throughout.

Power of Ancient Music

"That the music of the ancients could command farther than that of the moderns is past dispute," says Jeremy Collier. "Whether they were masters of a greater compass of notes or knew the secret of varying them more artfelally; whether they had a deeper insight into the philosophy of nature or understood the laws of the union of soul and body more thoroughly, and thus were enabled to touch the passions, strengthen the sense or prepare the medium with greater advantage is not so clear. But that their music swayed men more easily and with greater force than is possible today is beyond question."

As an example of this, Plutarch relates that at a banquet Alexander the Great became so stirred by the playing of his lyrist, Timotheus that he sprang from his seat and strangled one of the guests with his bare hands. Of course that is not especially remarkable; we all have probably heard music which inspired us to do murder. But in this case Timotheus, seeing to what a state he had brought his royal master, hurriedly changed from the warlike Phrygian measure he had been employing to a softer, more melodious style, and immediately Alexander responded. His fury departed, and melting into tears he threw himself down upon his victim, wailing and bemoaning his impulsive action.

Music Neglected Today

There is also an authentic story of a dangerous sedition in Lacedemonia having been quelled by music; and Boetius tells us of bands of rioters being dispersed on more than one occasion by the playing of the musician Damon when the troops and civic authorities had proven powerless.

Imagine today in case of a mob outbreak sending for a cellist or jazz outfit instead of calling out the National Guard; placing a battery of trombones at strategic points instead of a battery of machine guns. Yet, after all, it might not be such a bad idea.

It is an idea, too, that could be amplified in other directions. How would it be in cases of industrial disputes to require both parties to the controversy to listen to a half hour's rendition of soothing airs before threshing out their differences?

Speaking seriously, though, it is doubtful if the average man or woman pays sufficient heed to music or lets it play the part in his life of which it is capable.

TIMELY ARTICLE ON NERVOUS AILMENTS

President Wilson's recent nervous breakdown has drawn the attention of the world to the subject of nervous diseases in general and their treatment. Dr. Dercum, the nerve specialist who was called into consultation when the President's condition became serious, wrote a book recently explaining just what should be done to care for a person suffering from this affliction. War-Worn Statesmen
Ford and Alcohol
What Labor Needs

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1919.

Doctors are mysterious and alarming. It is certain that peace league fighting in Europe and here have broken down Woodrow Wilson's great strength. Heaven knows, he has had weight enough on him.

Colonel House comes home from the peace league, ill, worn out, says the announcement, by his peace league efforts.

The problems of one country appear to be about all that this nation or its representatives can take care of. Trying to care for Europe, Asia, Africa and the British empire appears to be too much of a job. To let Europe look after Europe, paying Europe's bills and doing Europe's fighting, while we look after this country and mind our business, as long as others will let us, would be a good program.

The farmers say they favor the eight-hour day, but as they work sixteen hours in the busy season they want two days' pay. That does not sound unreasonable, but it does sound like higher prices for food.

Three hundred thousand American coal miners are planning a tie-up of industry to get for themselves a working week of thirty hours. They would work six hours a day and five days a week only. Work in the mines is hard, they say, dark, dusty work should be short work.

That also sounds reasonable, but it sounds like coal at twenty dollars a ton. Mine owner, retailer and transportation men will say, "more for me also, if the miners get more."

By and by workers will discover that they, not Santa Claus, pay for each other's work. If each man in turn cuts down production by twenty-five or fifty per cent., a pinch will be felt. The rich man will not feel it. The price of potatoes or coal makes no difference to him.

Somebody in England with money has been discovered by an American inventor with a new, cheap fuel for autos. "Forty miles on a gallon and very cheap to make." We know that inventor in America and can sell several more to England if she will buy.

More important is the fact that Henry Ford is working at cheap production of alcohol as a substitute for gasoline. There is a possibility of producing alcohol at five cents a gallon, which would solve the fuel problem for a while. The farmer would make it of his waste vegetable products, and wood now burned to get rid of it would make alcohol to run engines.

Ford is the enemy of alcohol inside of anything except an iron engine. His doctor told him he would be abler and stronger if he would take red wine in moderation, but Ford said, "Get thee behind me, doctor," and is delighted to think that alcohol, which drove men to the poorhouse, will now drive the whole family to church.

It is a good thing for religion that the reverend flier, Maynard, won the race across the continent. The solemn bishop who said his clergyman must stay flying or leave the church should feel remorseful.

We are all to fly some day, some as angels with beautiful white wings, some down below with wings like those of a bat, so why forbid a clergyman to practice now?

The clergyman's victory is good for religion because it will make the young and foolish realize that there is strength and courage back of the preacher's quiet face. It takes courage, in the first place, to enter the church and endure its hardship, poor pay, public indifference and lack of gratitude. And from Mr. Maynard the public may learn that courage of the fighting kind and endurance that would make a great soldier are locked up in the bosom of many a preacher who speaks soft words, but would gladly fight instead.

Solemn Senators want to "Americanize" steel workers. One owlike suggestion reads, "Compel them to learn English within five years and send them out of the country if they do not learn."

Americanize the foreigner if you can and if he is willing. But remember that even the foreigner is supposed to have certain "life, liberty, etc.," rights. Americanize him with his consent, teach his wife to use a can opener, instead of a cook stove if she consents, but be careful about "sending him out of the country."

You need more workers now and will need a lot more soon. Your industrial methods have kept foreigners working in steel and other industries herded together. Your industrial leaders have purposely established groups of all-foreign labor in order to fight American-born labor in strikes, and negro labor has been used in strikes to fight white labor.

If you want foreign groups this deliberately created and maintained by organized capital to adopt American ways and the English language, accomplish your reforms gradually, in friendly fashion. You need those foreigners to do the nation's work more than they need you.
